Technology, Politics Continue American Ag Metamorphism

1995: Opinion And Review

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Perhaps the beginning of 1996 is not the time to reflect on events of the past 365 days.

Perhaps that time should be reserved for Groundhog Day.

Or April Fool's Day.

Or perhaps a reflection should be done every day until 2000 — the year attached to so many "legislative initiatives" that are to usher in a great bright future and century.

The final description of 1995 in terms of the balance of good or bad events is of course an individual one.

Statistics about 1995 American life — such as how people ate, spent, worked, traveled, graduated, built homes, died, were born, went out of business, or started in business — are still to be cranked out.

Some of the statistics and reports on the past year won't be publicized for years.

So, without all the data, without a comprehensive spread sheet on 1995, it seems the best thing to do is to fall back on perceptions, recognized milestones, and newsworthy events.

An Oliver Cletrac HG 68 tractor that Robert Tallman, pictured here, has restored, is featured in the 1996 Classic Tractor Calendar from Classic Tractor Calendars, Wilmington, Del. It was selected from hundreds of entries to appear in the seventh edition of the calendar. Tallman recently spoke about his efforts to restore the old Oliver tractors which he has collected. See story page A21.

Second Tobacco Auction Opens

KIRKWOOD (Lancaster Co.) — Another tobacco auction in Lancaster County will begin operation on Wednesday, Jan. 3, at Mac Bailey's receiving station at the corner of Rt. 472 and Noble Road just north of Kirkwood. Starting time is 1:30 p.m.

Baily said the new auction will make delivery more convenient to farmers in southern Lancaster County. The new tobacco auction is scheduled so the buyers who normally attend the Paradise Auction Wednesday morning can attend the afternoon sessions at Kirkwood. Both auctions are scheduled to run Monday, Wednesday, and Friday throughout the selling season.

This year, many tobacco farmers have held out for a higher price than the $1.25 per pound offered at the opening of the selling season. As a result, buyers raised the price in recent weeks to $1.38 to $1.40 per pound. At this price tobacco is beginning to change hands, though some farmers still have a $1.50 goal.

John Yocum, manager of the Penn State Research Farm at Landisville, said the quality this year is one of the best. And with weather problems in other tobacco growing areas and growing world market, local farmers have an advantage this year.

In other tobacco news, the Lancaster County tobacco show is scheduled to be held at the Farm and Home Center on Tuesday, Jan. 2. Entries are due in at 9:30 a.m. with judging at 1 p.m. County Agent Bob Anderson is in charge. Entries in the local show are boxed and sent to the Pennsylvania Farm Show later in the week to be judged on Friday.

Maryland Conservation Districts Honor Cooperators

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

NEW MIDWAY, Md.— Cooperators from the Frederick and Catoctin soil conservation districts were recognized for their dedication to conservation recently at the districts' annual banquets.

Together, the two districts encompass Frederick County. The boundary separating them is based on watersheds and runs down the Catoctin Mountain range.

The Frederick Soil Conservation District program took place at the Fire Hall in New Midway. The district traditionally presents three awards each year.

Cooperator of the Year is awarded to a farmer who has shown a continuing commitment to conservation and has signed a Cooperator agreement with the district. Frederick County's winners this year are Paul and Esther Lambert and Sons, who farm approximately 800 acres near Utica.

The Lamberts and their sons Donald, Charles, Ronald, and Norman, along with Esther's brother Richard Fogle, maintain a milking herd of 300. They installed a large ag waste facility several years ago and hosted the Catoctin and Frederick Soil Conservation Districts Annual Conservation Tour in 1994.

The Lamberts use minimum tillage, conservation cropping sys-

Jesse Burall, chairman of the Frederick Soil Conservation District in Maryland, presented the Cooperator of the Year Award to Paul and Esther Lambert and Sons Farm, Utica. The Farm Show Is Coming

With the new year just around the corner, thoughts of a large number of farmers and agribusiness people turn to the Pennsylvania Farm Show that is scheduled January 6 to 11. Actually, judging starts on Friday the 5th, but the show is not open to the public until Saturday.

To help you prepare for the annual trek to the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg, we get a jump on our coverage. On pages B17-B20 we have the layout of the show buildings with the exhibitor's spaces marked. You will also find the judging and meeting schedules in both text and graphic forms.

Next week is our annual Farm Show Issue with many on-farm features, expanded coverage of the highlights of the show, and advertising messages from the commercial exhibitors who invite you to visit them during the show. But we start our coverage with several stories this week about farm families involved at the show. On the Kids Page (B10) the Donough family tells about their experiences. And on page A17 Heidi, Luke and Gabe Svonavec along with their parents Dave and Betty Lou Svonavec from Somerset County tell how they literally take up residence for a week in Harrisburg.

To accommodate our early publication date to meet the opening of the Farm Show, we have early deadlines for advertising and news stories for the January 5th issue. They are as follows:

- Office closed New Years Holiday — Monday 1/1.
- Public Sale Ads — 4 p.m., Friday, 12/22 (past).
- Mailbox Markets — 5 p.m., Friday, 12/22 (past).
- General News — Noon, Wednesday, 1/3.
- Classified Section C Ads — 5 p.m., Tuesday, 1/2.

Delmarva Broiler

DECEMBER 27, 1995

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds remained fairly good. Offerings were adequate to closely cleared. Live supplies were moderate, instances light; weights varied in a full range of light to heavy. Slaughter schedules remained very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 53 to 64 cents. Trade sentiment was fully steady to firm. In the parts complex, wings were short of an active demand. Various breast cuts and leg items were at least adequate for immediate needs.

Trucklot buying interest was light and selective. Inquiry was active for tight supplies of wings. Various breasts cuts and leg items were fully sufficient. Retail and distributive movement was mostly light to fair, but was expected to increase late week for first of the month business and scattered retail ads. Trade sentiment was firm on wings; improved, but still unsettled on the balance.

North Atlantic Shell Eggs

Thursday, December 28, 1995
Report Supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: PRICES WERE UNCHANGED. THE MARKET TONE WAS STEADY. DEMAND CONTINUED MODERATE TO GOOD. SUPPLIES OF WHITE EGGS WERE ADEQUATE OR AVAILABLE, AND BROWN EGG FLOOR STOCKS REMAINED NO MORE THAN ADEQUATE. BREAKING STOCK SUPPLIES WERE ADEQUATE.

PHILADELPHIA:

National Egg Market

DECEMBER 27, 1995

Prices were unchanged to lower in New England, Texas, and Louisiana; elsewhere, prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady at best with brown eggs still in the steadiest position. Demand was mixed from fair to good, best where post-holiday retail restocking occurred. Supplies were adequate or available for white eggs except occasionally cartoned eggs were tight, and brown eggs were no more than adequate. Breaking stock supplies were at least adequate, and demand remained light as most plants worked reduced schedules. Spent hen offerings were also at least adequate for the light and unaggressive demand, and plant schedules were also reduced.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
DECEMBER 27, 1995

Some export disappointments and light profit taking offered slight weakness to wheat bids. Profit taking also drove corn and soybean bids moderately to sharply lower in reaction to weather improvement in South America. Wheat mostly 1 to 2 cents lower. Corn 1 to 3 cents lower. Sorghum 4 to 5 cents lower. Soybeans 7 to 9 cents lower. Up and down, is probably how grain and soybean bids will trade for a while. With uncertainty in South American weather and nothing definite in export business, trading could be very volatile the next few weeks. Wheat fell slightly lower in reaction to weakness in corn and bean pits and lack of fresh export news. Corn received some export interest from Japan as earlier reported but profit taking set in after recent highs undermined bids. Soybean bids dropped sharply on liquidation and rain in South America.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

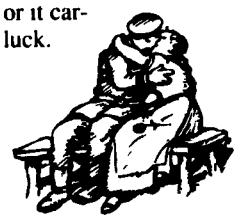
BOXING DAY, DEC. 26.

NEW YEAR'S LUCK

Superstitions abound at New Year's Eve, perhaps more than any other time of year. How you spend your evening and day will predict the year to come, many believe. In many cultures, windows are opened just before midnight to let the bad luck out and welcome in the good luck for the coming year. Noisemakers keep demons at bay. Keep money in your pockets, or you'll go poor all the year. Kiss the person you hope to keep kissing, and do the thing you hope to keep doing during the year to come. Never hang a calendar before the New Year, or it carries some of the old year's bad luck.



With bounteous cheer, conclude the year!

— The Old Farmer's Almanac

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Hot water with a bit of alcohol will wash windows in winter, and cut through frost. Wipe dry quickly.

CINNAMON CRISPS

1/3 cup butter
3/4 cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1-1/2 cups flour, sifted
1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon (scant) salt
1-1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar, then stir in eggs. Sift dry ingredients and add, along with vanilla. Chill dough, then roll out on floured surface to 1/8 inch thickness. Cut with cookie cutter and bake on greased cookie sheets at 375° F. about 10 to 12 minutes. Great with hot drinks!

Makes about 2-1/2 dozen.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

The weather on Christmas foretells the weather for the coming year.

If windy on Christmas, trees will bring much fruit.

Snow on Christmas night, good hop crop.

Prepare To Make Your Thoughts Known

We come to the end of another year with the knowledge that we are blessed in this country despite all the negatives that circulate in the farm community. Maybe the most important thing we are free to do is change the way government operates if we don't like what they are doing. They can't do this in other countries.

Along these lines we compliment Gov. Tom Ridge for his follow-through on a campaign promise to make DER more friendly. This happened with the introduction of the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). At a recent Ag Issues Forum, Lynn Langer, chief of the nutrient management program, said regulatory, educational, compliance assistance, and alternate use aspects are included in the new department's efforts. "DEP looks at nutrient management as putting the nutrients in manure back into production rather than in the groundwater or streams," Langer said. Of course, no farmer worthy of the name could disagree with this outlook.

Nevertheless, a whole new set of regulations are about to be put on farmers in Pennsylvania. The state, under the Ridge administration, is playing down the penalties for this new program. Officials say they want to put their effort into helping farmers comply rather than to "carry a big stick." That's commendable. But the new regulations will continue long after the Ridge administration is out of office. And a new administration may take a different view because of public pressure.

Already, environmental groups have expressed displeasure with this new attitude in Harrisburg. According to a recent release from the Associated Press, the number of environmental fines issued by the state has fallen quite noticeably. But the Sierra Club says this reduction in fines is not a sign of progress but an invitation for polluters to come to Pennsylvania.

James Seif, DEP secretary, disagrees. He says the department needs to be practical in its approach. Serious violators will be punished, but the state also needs to look for ways to correct problems without being heavy-handed and without spending too much time or money in court. "I don't think every noncompliance is an environmental insult to the planet or to the neighbors," Seif said. "We've got to recognize that."

On the farm, we expect the financial institutions will bring compliance with the new nutrient management laws by requiring management plans in conjunction with loan approval. In addition, disgruntled neighbors may want to count loads of manure taken to fields on the farm and report their findings to the DEP.

No question about it, nutrient management laws will change the way you farm, especially if you have a large number of livestock on a small number of acres. The blessing is that you will have a chance to provide testimony to the writers of these regulations during the first several months of the new year. A list of the times and places for these comments are included in a legal notice and an article in this issue. Now is the time to become informed about how these new regulations will affect you and prepare yourself to comment on the aspects that are not in line with practical farm operation.

Take advantage of your freedoms as a citizen of this country. Prepare to make your thoughts known about the new nutrient management regulations at the appropriate time and place.

To Pick Up Farmer's Tax Guide

The 1995 Farmer's Tax Guide has arrived at your local cooperative extension office.

This Internal Revenue Service publication is distributed free through cooperative extension. This complete guide contains instructions on how to file you 1995 Income Tax Return.

Even if you do not file your own taxes, you should pick up a copy of the tax guide and read it. You may learn of deductions or other tax savings your accountant may miss.

Remember, you are the one most familiar with your operation So take time now to pick up your 1995 Farmer's Tax Guide and read it for valuable financial information and tax saving ideas.

To Dress For Winter

This week officially marked the beginning of winter. We have already experienced cold weather and will probably see a lot more before spring.

In extremely cold weather, Dr. Larry Kenney, Penn State associate professor of applied physiology, says it is extremely important to keep the head covered and to cover the face and mouth with a scarf to prevent heat loss from the body.

It is important to remember that the extremities of the body will cool faster than the rest of the body. Thus, they must be protected with gloves, boots, and ear flaps to prevent frostbite.

When you know you will be out in the cold, always overdress. It is easier to remove unneeded clothing than it is to get warm when extra clothing is not available.

Wearing layers of clothing is well suited to staying warm. Being aware of the effect that wind has on temperatures is very important. Blowing winds make the temperature feel colder.

Thirty degrees will feel like minus two degrees when the wind is blowing at 30 miles per hour.

To Make New Year's Resolutions

It will soon be 1996. Now is the time of year to make our New Year's resolutions.

Some resolutions you might consider are:

- Attend winter meetings in 1996 to learn something new to be tried on your farm. Earn at least 6 pesticide credits so you will not be trying to earn them all at the last minute when your license expires.
- Attend at least one management seminar to learn more about financial or labor management.
- Develop a nutrient management plan for your farm. Review and up date your soil conservation plan.
- Plan a family vacation. Spend at least two hours per week with each child.
- Clean up and organize one work area on the farm each month.
- Plant a wind break around confinement animal housing barns.
- Visit and get to know every neighbor before spring planting.
- Spend 10 hours every week on professional improvement (reading, attending meetings, visiting other farms and businesses, etc.).
- Do not work more than 3,000 hours and volunteer for more than 500 hours in a year.
- Develop a hobby.

These are just a few ideas. Create your own list. Remember, New Year's resolutions are designed to help us identify ways to live better, happier, and productive lives.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "The first step toward creating an improved future is developing the ability to envision it."

RISE AND SHINE!

RISE AND SHINE!
December 31, 1995

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 60 through 61
Devotional Reading:
Romans 15:15-21

I don't know how it is in your community, but in ours the Christmas lights are out, if not down by December 31. In fact, many of them disappear on the 26th. But, not at our house: we keep them up for the full Twelve Days of Christmas!

Twelfth Night is one of the most significant days in the Christian calendar, Epiphany. Although it is one of America's least known and observed holy days, in some countries Epiphany, January 6, is a legal holiday. Some years ago we observed Epiphany in Austria where it is called Drei Koenige, The "Three Kings," a reference to the wise men who came to Bethlehem to see the newborn "king of the Jews" (Matt. 2:1-15). Children dressed as the three kings went throughout the town, including the hotels, to tell the ancient story and spread the message of Epiphany.

In ancient times the winter solstice (when the days begin to get longer) occurred on January 6. Early Christians celebrated Christ's birth on January 6. But later, when the calendar was adjusted, the winter solstice fell on December 25. (A later adjustment moved winter solstice to December 21-22, where it is today, but Christmas remained on December 25.) Although some eastern orthodox Christians still celebrate Christmas on January 6, for most of the rest of Christendom it is observed as Epiphany, as Greek word meaning "manifestation" or "appearance" — a celebration of the visit of the wise men and Christ's manifestation to the whole world.

YOUR LIGHT HAS COME

A scripture passage often associated with Epiphany is Isaiah 60. Once again, as in Isaiah 9, the prophet uses the symbol of light:

Arise, shine; for your light has come, and the glory of the Lord has risen upon you. For behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and thick darkness the peoples; but the Lord will arise upon you, and his glory will be seen upon you. And nations shall come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your rising.

The reference to "kings" in 60:3 and to "gold and frankincense" in 60:6b are sometimes regarded as prophetic predictions of the three wise men and the gifts they brought.

But most of all it is the symbol of light that makes epiphany so significant for the Christian life and mission. At Christmas we are called to see the light of Christ that shines in the darkness. But Epiphany takes that one step further and lays upon us the obligation to be the light for the world around us. Without epiphany the message of Christmas is incomplete. Epiphany challenges us to keep the Light of Christmas lit in the world long after the Christmas lights and decorations have been taken down.

NO DARKNESS

On the New Hebrides island of Nguna there is a little church with a picture of the missionary who founded it. Peter Milne. Under the picture is an inscription: "When he came there was no light; When he died there was no darkness."

Peter Milne's mission is the same one that Christ gives to each of us: to let his light shine through us and overcome the darkness. Henry P. Van Dusen, the late President of Union Theological Seminary in New York, wrote that the Church, "with all its weakness and its pettiness, its failures and its follies and its infidelities, is the bearer of the Light which cannot be overcome because it is lit from the Eternal Light of God himself ... That light, no man-made darkness can ever extinguish."

This little light of mine, I'm going to let it shine! What about you?

Excellent Opportunity For Steady Income In Swine Production

Hostetter Management

Hostetter Management Company is a swine production management group with finishing contracts available within 100 miles of Harrisburg through Wenger Feeds. We are looking for farmers interested in exploring the option of constructing and operating 2100 head finishing facilities to grow feeder pigs for market. The feeder pigs are readily available through our existing 1400 head sow units.

Why consider a swine operation??
- Steady cash flow
- 5 year renewable contracts
- Opportunity for long term growth
- Nutrient management for manure control

Hostetter Management can provide information for construction of the facility and coordinate financing. We will instruct you in the management of the barn and offer steady cash flow throughout the 4 month growing period to run the operation. No need for you to finance the growing!

If you are a farmer interested in supplementing your income, we urge you to contact us as soon as possible. Let us put our 40 years combined experience to work getting you started in this expanding market.

Teens Sample College Life On Customized Tours

NEWARK, Del. — Marianne Friez appeared the consummate pro as she confidently grasped a skittish calf and quickly slid a halter around its head. Friez was one of two dozen students working with the College of Agricultural Sciences' beef cattle one windy autumn afternoon at the Webb Farm on the University of Delaware campus.

As they marshalled the calves through a head gate and sprayed them for pests, the students tried to recall all that their professor, Dr. Lesa Griffiths, had told them about safely handling cattle, such as paying close attention to the animal's personal space requirements.

No doubt about it, ANSC 111, the lab component of the college's introductory animal science course, is one challenging class. But Friez clearly was in her element — even though on a typical weekday you'll find her at Henderson High School in West Chester.

Dressed in faded jeans and an oversized t-shirt, the 18-year-old looked like any of the first-year animal science students. However, she's actually a high school senior who has applied for admission to the University of Delaware 1996 freshman class. Her afternoon at the animal science lab was just one of the more than 60 customized tours arranged each year by Karen Roth Aniunas, assistant dean for student services in the College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Marianne wants to work with animals and possibly become a veterinarian, so attending an animal science lab was a good way for her to further explore her interests," says Aniunas. "After the lab, Marianne concluded her visit with an informal, half-hour chat with Dr. Griffiths.

"We create personalized, one-on-one tours that allow prospective students to learn more about our college while they learn more about possible fields of study," notes Aniunas. "For example, a student considering a major in horticulture could visit the Fischer Greenhouse, followed by a walk through the UD Botanical Gardens and a question-and-answer session with horticultural professor Dr. David Frey. A high-schooler intrigued by economics might spend the morning with Drs. Bobby Gempesaw and Carl Toensmeyer, learning about the department of food and resource economics."

Developing a half dozen customized tours each month is a time-consuming task for Aniunas, and for the countless faculty members who participate despite their busy schedules of research and teaching. But such emphasis on personal attention is a hallmark of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Our interest and involvement in students' academic careers extends well beyond that initial campus visit," notes Aniunas. "We let the parents know that in survey after survey of alumni, the ag college faculty are consistently given high marks for the advisement they offer."

Friez, who appreciated that Dr. Griffiths took time out of her day to talk with her, reports she learned a lot from attending the animal science professor's class. But Friez also picked up invaluable information from the ANSC 111 students, who were quick to chat with her and share their "college survival tips" as they all worked together in a cavernous barn.

After haltering her spirited calf and leading it to a holding pen, Friez leaned up against a gate and took a well-deserved break. Brushing her shoulder-length, chestnut-colored hair back from her face, Friez surveyed the bustling scene around her and broke into a satisfied grin.

"I'm really impressed with the college and with the animal science program," said Friez. "As a result of this tour, I know I definitely want to come here next year."

New Nutrition Adds Flexibility

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—Flexible and user friendly are two adjectives best used to describe the new nutrition program. This unique program can handle thirteen feeds which includes 4 concentrates, 6 total mixed rations, 10 forages and twelve pastures. Along with being able to report 4 concentrate pounds, a dairyman may report this information to the nearest hundreds.

The Herd Summary I Report reflects the new changes and has an expanded format to better show the customization of the report. A dairyman has the luxury of naming his own feeds, unlike in the old forage program, where the feeds are numbered. Again, the dairyman may do this in the order of his preference. The dairyman also needs to provide the correct dry matter, crude protein, net energy and the correct cost per cwt. and total pounds fed per cow daily. The program is able to handle up to 5 groups of cows, which means that any of the thirteen feeds may be group fed.

Currently the new nutrition is set-up in a way that the feed information will stay in the laptop computer between farm visits. This helps in a situation where a dairyman may quickly want to check the calculations from the previous month. Once reported, only changes, additions and deletions are required.

Dairymen are still able to utilize the old nutrition program. However, information cannot be entered in both the old and new programs. A decision must be made on what best suits the member.

Ask your PA DHIA Technician on your next testday to put you on the new nutrition program option at no extra cost!

Milk Producers May Apply For Refunds

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—Milk producers can received a refund of the assessment placed by Commodity Credit Corporation against the price received for milk during 1995.

If a producer did not exceed their commercial milk marketings from the 1994 base period, he may qualify for a full refund. All other eligibility requirements must be met.

If a milk producer went out of the dairy business during 1995, production cannot be exceeded for the equivalent months and days in 1994. A full transfer of cows to family members can also qualify using these guidelines.

Applications will be approved when documentation for all producers requesting a refund has been submitted from all dairy units in which the producer has an interest and from all related persons with whom the producer has any dairy interests. Related persons include spouse, minor child, guardian, corporations, partnerships, joint ventures, and estates in which the person seeking the refund has a financial interest.

Failure to report these interests can result in repaying any refund plus severe civil penalties. Evident can include monthly payment receipts or statements from milk handlers.

Bradford County Producers Elect Directors

WYSOX (Bradford Co.)—On Thursday, December 14, 1995 a Bradford County NEDHIA Member Meeting was held in Wysox. The purpose of this meeting was the establish a Bradford County Northeast Board of Directors. The Board consists of: President: Glenn Gorrell; Vice President: Glenn Kline; Secretary/Treasurer: Daniel Hoppaugh; County Director: Kris Wright.

Bradford County is now a part of Northeast DHIA District IV that is currently represented by Keith Whittaker of Whitney Point, New York. District IV includes New York and Pennsylvania and consists of more than 500 Northeast DHIA dairy producer members in a six county area.

These newly elected county directors now participate in the Fall and Spring District Meetings in providing advice to their District Director and the Management Team at Northeast DHIA. In addition, they will have a voice in the election of the Director representing District IV.

Northeast DHIA currently serves over 4000 members in a nine state area of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Maine and Vermont. Questions or comments may be directed to the DHI Center, 730 Warren Road, Ithaca, New York, 14850, or 1-800-DHI-COWS.

Farm Show Means Svonavec Family Moves To Harrisburg

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

ROCKWOOD (Somerset Co.) — Heidi, Luke and Gabe Svonavec need a caravan to haul all the baggage and equipment when they and their livestock head to the Pennsylvania Farm Show. But probably the animals need more stuff than the owners do.

They're showing lambs, pigs and a steer.

Dave and Betty Lou Svonavec's three offshoots just grin when their mother laments, "I wish they showed the same thing. I think the animals have far more luggage than us," obviously envisioning bags of feed, grooming tools and hefty storage chests before mentally organizing the family itself, which headquarters the better part of a week in a motel.

The kids say they don't mind all the work involved to show their animals at the Farm Show. They have terrific fun, despite keeping up with daily responsibilities.

For sheer personality, porkers are 10-year-old Gabe's favorite. Luke, 13, prefers the challenge of steers, while Heidi, 15, finds lambs just right for controlability.

Yet, when the swine and sheep shows get underway, all three Svonavecs will be lined up to show, unlike the steers where none of Luke's competition will come from his siblings.

Heidi states flatly, "The steers I have no way of controlling."

After joining the High Ridge 4-H at age nine, she knows by now what she likes — sheep. In 1995 she placed fourth and tenth in the North American International Livestock Exhibition in Louisville, Kentucky; had the grand champion at the Eastern National Livestock Show, Timonium, Maryland; was in the Keystone International Livestock Exhibition, and had the grand champion lamb at the Somerset County Fair.

Then she showed breeding stock for a family friend, Emmett McMillen from Brush Valley, Indiana County; at Dayton Fair, Indiana Co. Fair and Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

"There are so many good lambs out there, I think 'Wow,'" she says. "I always go in expecting to learn something. Like at Louisville, I knew I didn't have a chance but you always have fun," she says.

Her mom adds, "Going away (to tougher competitions) has made her better here. There's so much out there and it's like being a little fish in a big pond."

At Show Lamb Camp, held at B and B Livestock, Danville, Ohio, Heidi has improved her techniques for showing and fitting, has gotten the hang of giving shots, and educated herself with knowledge about feeding and breeding — all the important components that make a difference when it counts in the show ring.

One event she will miss at this year's Farm Show is the square dancing competition. For six years she's been whirled and twirled in the big arena with other Somerset County 4-Hers. Being a mere spectator this time may stir some sentimental feelings for the versatile teenager.

Anticipating her 16th birthday next March and the subsequent licensed driver privileges, Heidi states that school performance is still her priority. "I've got to keep my grades up," she says.

Somehow, despite being a cheerleader, school play cast member, Rockwood FFA member, cooking teacher of the learning disabled through the Intermediate Unit-8, and conducting agscience, water testing projects in the hydroponic greenhouse, she manages to stay on the honor roll.

Luke is ready to exert his control over a 1,300 pound steer that he's been walking a mile each day regardless of the weather to keep its weight correct. Additionally, he's been closely monitoring the amount of feed the steer eats.

The youth is acquiring a confidence that took some time and experience. Earlier, when showing lambs he recalls, "I was afraid my lamb would get away and I wouldn't be able to catch it."

Now, however, he's learned that concentration matters the most. "I don't look at the audience, I look at the judge and concentrate. The worst thing," he says, "would be to lose control and have someone getting hurt."

One thing about a steer, he'll consume a lot of feed in 11 months and a fellow can depend on forking out some big bucks to support the animal's eating habits.

Of course, there's the lighter side, like the quip on one of Luke's shirts that somebody gave to him when he was showing sheep in Louisville. "I used to have money," it says, "now I show steers."

Gabe Svonavec stands with a pen of pigs he will take to the Farm Show. He will show a lamb, too.

A cute joke that's pretty accurate when the family compares the difference in rounding out a steer and a lamb.

The vaccinated and tagged steer was shown earlier in Washington County and also at the Dayton Fair.

With his hog Luke has placed in the upper class and is anticipating the possibility of a sale when the champions are sold on Thursday.

The Rockwood eighth grader and FFA member as well as ski club and soccer player, at the Somerset County Agricultural Fair, has had two reserve grand champion lambs.

The Svonavecs' pigs did well in the past at the winter Farm Show, at least in "rate of gain" where all three were placed in the top six.

Unlike his sister and brother, Gabe attends the St. Peter's Catholic School in Somerset. He's in fourth grade.

Recently, he's been taking violin lessons. He says the instrument reminds him of a fiddle. Gabe definitely fancies the fiddle. And since Luke has no string teacher at school, and therefore doesn't play his violin any more, it has come in handy for the youngest family member.

Luke Svonavec will show this steer plus a pig and a lamb.

Beef Evaluation Program Set

LEESPORT (Berks Co.)—All beef producers are invited to attend an On-Foot, On-Rail Beef Evaluation Workshop to increase their skills at evaluating live animals. This event is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension in southeast Pennsylvania and Berks/Southeast Cattlemen.

The sessions will be as follows:

•Live Evaluation—Jan. 16 at Leesport Farmer's Market, Rt. 61, North of Leesport. Live Evaluation: 7:30 p.m.

•Carcass Evaluation—Jan. 18 at Peters Bros. Meats, Lenhartsville, Lenhartsville Exit of Rt. 78 (22) just off Rt. 143 in Lenhartsville. Carcass Evaluation: 7:30 p.m.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 16, each animal will be evaluated by everyone attending. Animals will be judged on quality grade, yield grade, size of rib eye and depth of fat over rib and overall characteristics as a beef animal. A cattle buyer from Moyer's Packing will help with the live evaluation. At the live evaluation, Jeff Mamett from Upjohn will conduct a quality assurance discussion including site injections and other concerns.

On Thursday, Jan. 18, Chester Hughes, extension agent in Lancaster County, will evaluate each carcass for dressing percentage, marbling score, maturity, quality grade, rib eye area, fat over rib, and yield grade.

The cost is $2 for non-members of the Berks/Southeast Cattlemen Association. There will be no cost for members who have paid their 1996 dues. Cattle producers interested in having one of their animals evaluated are welcome to enter a steer, heifer, bull or cow.

For more information, contact Clyde A.B. Myers, Berks County Cooperative Extension, (610) 378-1327.

Organic Growers Meeting Set

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that the Maryland Department of Agriculture along with the Maryland Marketing Cooperative Advisory Committee and the Maryland Organic Food and Farming Association will sponsor an organic producers meeting on Jan. 13, at 1 p.m. in the MDA Headquarters Building, Annapolis.

The purpose of the gathering will be for all growers interested in forming an organic producers association to meet and discuss cooperative solutions to common problems.

"Organic production is increasing in our state and we hope to do a better job of marketing organic fruits and vegetables. I urge all organic producers who are interested in forming an organic producers association in order to improve our marketing efforts, to come to the meetings in January. This is an opportunity for organic farmers to aggressively help themselves," Riley said.

In addition, the Maryland Organic Food and Farming Association will hold its annual meeting on the same morning beginning at 9 a.m. This meeting is open to the public and will feature a keynote speaker from one of the nation's most successful organic marketing cooperatives.

For further information and a snow date, call the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services, at (410) 841-5770.

Agribusiness Association Honors 3

CLAYTON, N.J.—Helena Chemical, Ted Platz, and Norman Smith were honored recently at the annual meeting of the New Jersey Agribusiness Association (NSAA) at the Holiday Inn Executive Conference Center in Bridgeport.

Helena Chemical Co. was named Agribusiness of the Year for 1995. They have sales offices in Woodstown and a division office in Swedesboro. They were honored for their outstanding sales and service to New Jersey farmers and specialty crop growers.

Also recognized were five sales and management people of Helena who have provided leadership to the former Plant Food Educational Society, the former Pesticide Association of New Jersey, and the New Jersey Agribusiness Association. Jerry Frecon, public relations chair of the NJAA, presented the award to Roy Petters, local manager of Helena in New Jersey.

Ted Platz was named N.J. Agribusinessman of the Year because of his extraordinary efforts in promoting New Jersey Agriculture. Platz is the president of Plant Food Company, Inc. of Cranberry, N.J.

Norman Smith of Vineland was presented the "Heritage Award" for his past contributions to agriculture. Smith was a county agricultural agent in New York State and Cumberland County for 32 years.

ADC Elects Directors

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative members this fall elected one new director and re-elected six directors, it was announced at the cooperative's 78th annual meeting.

New to Atlantic's board is Scott J. Kreider of Quarryville. Kreider replaces Robert B. McSparran of Peach Bottom, who served on the board of directors since 1966 and as president for the past 15 years.

Kreider will represent the cooperative's members in District 3, which includes southern Lancaster County and parts of York County. Kreider farms in a family corporation with his father, Allen R., uncle Samuel H. and cousin Herbert S. Kreider. They milk 200 Holstein cows and farm 520 acres, of which they own 450 acres.

Kreider is a member of Mechanic Grove Church of the Brethren. He is chairman of the East Drumore Township Planning Commission and is assistant manager of the Solanco Fair. He and his wife, Vickie, have four children — Nathan, Laurie, Amy and Ellis.

Re-elected to Atlantic's 23-member board of directors were H. Wallace Cook Jr., Newark, Del.; Rhelda E. Royer, Lancaster; Thomas W. Powel, Union Bridge, Md.; Charles E. Schilling, Petersburg; L. Elmer Vickers, Kearneysville, W. Va.; and David N. Noss, Port Royal.

H. Wallace Cook Jr. is serving his second term as a director of Atlantic's District 4, which covers the state of Delaware. He and his wife, Martha, farm in partnership with their sons, Herman W. III and Stephen E. Cook. They farm a total of 986 acres and milk 125 Holstein cows.

Rhelda E. Royer, director of District 7, represents members in Lancaster, Lebanon and Dauphin counties. She and her son, Lynn, milk 71 Holstein cows and farm more than 200 acres. This is Royer's third term on Atlantic's board.

Thomas W. Powel was elected to his second term, serving members in District 10, which includes the state of Maryland. Powel farms with his sister and brother-in-law, Anne and Cam Davis, in a family corporation. They farm 588 acres and milk 150 Holstein cows.

Charles E. Schilling has been a member of Atlantic's board since 1976. In addition to being re-elected the District 12 director, Schilling was named second vice president. He and his wife, Sandy, are in partnership with their son, Curtis. They farm 460 acres and milk 160 Holstein cows. Schilling represents members in Hungingdon, Centre, Clearfield and Mifflin counties.

L. Elmer Vickers, the District 17 director since 1975, represents members in Western Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Vickers and his wife, Mary Catherine, are in partnership with their sons, Lawrence and John. They milk 150 Holstein and Jersey cows and farm 404 acres.

David N. Noss was elected to his fourth term as director of District 18, which covers Perry, Mifflin, Juniata, Snyder and Franklin counties. He and his wife, Sharon, are in partner ship witih his brother, Larry Noss. They milk 60 Holstein cows and farm 230 acres.

Members of Atlantic's board of directors are elected to a three-year term, commencing at the annual meeting.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents more than 3,800 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. In fiscal 1995, the cooperative marketed 4.54 billion pounds of milk and earned a net margin of $4.3 million.

Farm Show Means

The newest High Ridge 4-Her finds pigs comfortable creatures and not very demanding. Besides, they don't complain if you use their warm, chubby bodies for a resting place.

"You don't have to do a lot of work with them," says Gabe. "At the county fair, when I'm tired after I do all the work, I can lay on them," he says.

For exercise, the pigs are walked out and back the family lane some four times in succession and Gabe says they're fed chop.

"It was nice getting to go (to the Farm Show) and see what it was like and show my animals," says the AYSO soccer and youth basketball player. "They (his animals) didn't lay down or anything," he said, recalling his previous experiences.

The busy kids have certainly found a kindred spirit in their foster brother, Terry. He's older than they and pitches in to help wherever help is needed. "Terry does a lot of work around the place," they agreed.

One thing's for sure. The homestead may resemble Old MacDonald's Farm on a normal day, but when MacDonald and his show take off for Harrisburg, the remaining barnyard set will undoubtedly suffer pangs of homesickness for their counterparts.

New Jersey Bus Set For Pa. Farm Show

RUTGERS, N.J.—Tickets are on sale for the county Board of Agriculture's annual bus trip to the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg.

The trip is set for Tuesday, January 9, at a cost of $15 per person. Tickets are sold on a first-come first-serve basis and must be paid in advance at the Extension Center, 4 Gauntt Place, Flemington, NJ 08822. If you have any questions, please call the Extension Center at 788-1339.

The bus is to leave the Extension Center at 7 a.m. It will stop to pick up passengers in the parking lot of the Clinton A&P around 7:20 and in the parking lot of the Laneco on Route 22 in Phillipsburg around 7:40.

People taking the bus from Laneco should park in the part of the lot closest to the Holiday Inn (formerly Commodore Inn).

The bus is to leave the farm show about 5:00 p.m., stopping on the way home at a restaurant in Shartlesville, Pa., that specializes in Pennsylvania Dutch cuisine. People will pay for their own meals.

The bus is expected to arrive back at the Extension Center shortly after 9 p.m.

Please stay with the auction system. We are still working as hard as we can for you.

Remember, there is only 100% of the tobacco offered. What will the buyer do to get more tobacco?
1 - raise the price at auction, or
2 - buy on the farm

If the buyer buys on the farm he will tell the farmer that there's no commission to warehouse and that his price will be the same as at the auction. But, what will the on-farm buyer pay for low grade? If the buyer docks you on a 800 lb. skid - it could pay the commission for your whole crop selling at auction.

We like all buyers to buy at auction - we need your tobacco.
Please color grade
• Put bright tobacco in one grade
• Put tips in one grade
• Put ground leaves in one grade

Thank you farmers for your good workmanship in 1995 — one pretty crop!

Sabillasville. Owned and operated by Betty Calimer, son Rich, Richard Masser, and Jimmy and Bonnie Miller, the farm has been in the family for seven generations.

Mrs. Calimer's great great grandfather, David Harbaugh, built the original farmstead in 1866, and the farm has remained in the family since that time. The family grows approximately 60 acres of vegetables and 40 acres of fruit, and also raises replacement dairy heifers. Management practices implemented by the Calimers include installation of a watering trough, stream fencing, field stripcropping, establishing permanent hayland, and a conservation cropping system.

The Take Pride in Frederick County award honors a farm that is conservation-oriented and consistently displays outstanding appearance. This year the award was presented to Clovertop Farm, Inc., owned by Russell and Marilyn Wachter, and son Wayne Wachter and his wife Jacqueline. The Wachter's picturesque 200-acre dairy has been in the family since 1932. They milk approximately 90 cows and have installed an ag waster facility for manure handling, roof runoff management, and a grassed waterway to stabilize an area of concentrated flow of surface runoff water in a crop field. The Wachters have also served as tour hosts for the Catoctin and Frederick Soil Conservation Districts' Annual Conservation Tour.

The Frederick District also awarded three $250 scholarships this year. Matthew Toms, attending Frederick Community College, and Jody Bell and Jody Lynn Powell, who both attend Virigina Tech., were honored with the scholarships, given to students concentrating their future educations in agriculture or evironmental education.

The Catoctin Soil Conservation District also presented three awards during their banquet, held at the Jefferson Community Center.

Cooperatore of the Year for the Catoctin District is Donald Huffer, Homestead Farms, Middletown. Huffer has been a cooperator since 1974 on this farm. The farm has been in his family for five generations.

He has installed a spring development with three troughs to water livestock, a pond to enhance sediment control and benefit wildlife, and contour strips.

Moores Selected For National Leadership Program

CENTREVILLE, Md. — Jeff and Cindy Moore of Centreville, Md., recently returned from Nashville, Tenn., where they participated in a Young Cooperator Leadership Program sponsored by the National Milk Producers Federation. While at the conference, the Moores were elected to serve on the 10-couple YC Advisory Council.

"Serving on the Council will give us the opportunity to learn more about the national organization and to work with young producers from across the country," Jeff said. "We want to know more about our business — from the political side to the day-to-day side.

"While all dairy producers strive to produce safe and wholesome products for the consumer, we also need to be aware of the role the government plays on our business."

Cindy, who takes an active part in the dairy, said she enjoyed the opportunity to mingle with other dairy couples and listen to the many speakers. She said the conference allowed her to exchange information with other dairy producer wives.

"Many of us are partners in the business, and this conference drove home the valuable role that many wives play in the success of the family farm," Cindy added.

The couple was selected to participate in the YC Leadership Program from among young couples who belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, Southampton, Pa. To earn the right to travel to the conference, they had to fill out an application related to their farm, undergo a farm inspection and interview process and present an extemporaneous speech.

At Nashville, the YC Leadership couples gained more insight into the dairy industry and NMPF's role from the CEO of NMPF, Jim Barr, and NMPF's President, Tom Camerlo. Other issues addressed included management and profitability, the family farm, care of animals, manufacturing of dairy products and becoming a pricemaker.

Fondness For Oliver Tractors Puts This Restoration Expert In Calendar

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARBESON, Del. — Robert Tallman affectionately refers to the tractor as "Old Number 1." Tallman admits it was his "first true love." He'll never forget the day he won it over an Allis Chalmers WC.

To Tallman, Old Number 1 refers to an Oliver 70 tractor. It was a beauty when his dad bought it in 1939. It was fitted with an electric starter and lights, rubber tires, and was powered by what he calls an "industry first": a six-cylinder, valve-in-head, high compression engine rated at 28 horsepower.

The Oliver 70 is the tractor that Tallman believes "put Oliver on its feet to make them a full-line company."

Tallman collects the old Oliver tractors. He has 20 of them in a recently constructed 48-foot by 75-foot storage building, many waiting to be restored.

The Series 70 was chosen over his brother's preference, an Allis Chalmers WC. Robert was happy with his dad's decision — and still keeps Old Number 1 in storage.

Unhappily, Old Number 1 is worn out. It had its day and is ripe for restoration.

Now, only time will tell when Tallman can complete a painstaking, precise restoration. He prefers to take his time and, as he admitted, doing it right.

In the meantime, an Oliver Cletrac HG 68 tractor, of which Tallman has restored, is featured in the 1996 Classic Tractor Calendar from Classic Tractor Calendars, Wilmington, Del. It was selected from hundreds of entries to appear in the seventh edition of the calendar.

Tallman recently spoke about his efforts to restore the old Oliver tractors which he has collected.

Tallman is secretary of the National Hart-Parr/Oliver Collectors Association, based at the old Oliver manufacturing site of Charles City, Iowa. He admitted that he's looking for an "Oliver pal" that could help him in the restoration process.

Tallman remains in close contact with the 3,000-member (and growing) organization that serves as an information source and clearinghouse for the Oliver tractors.

Popular before and after World War II, the Oliver tractor boasted the world's first continuous running power takeoff for tractors. The takeoffs were installed on the Oliver Fleet Line — Series 66, 77, and 88 — in 1948. The Fleet Line allowed Oliver to "lead the industry by a country mile," said Tallman.

However, after he purchased the tractor, he was frustrated with the lack of nearby dealer support and service centers for Olivers. The tractor impressed him early on, because Nebraska engineering tests certified that the tractor could pull 84 percent of its weight. It was a good, sturdy, long-lasting machine.

But Tallman couldn't resist. Together with his brother George, Robert went into business.

On Jan. 2, 1946, the brothers formed a partnership in Tower City, Pa. to sell Oliver tractors, new and used. The brothers operated the dealership together until 1969. The business continues as the Tallman Supply Company.

Robert then went into the industrial supply business and decided to continue to collect and restore the Oliver tractors on the side.

But as Oliver dealers, they were also farmers. As the Tallman Brothers, George and Robert farmed about 500 acres near Tower City, about 350 acres of which they owned. George still grows potatoes near Tower City and Robert lives in the Rehobeth Beach, Del. area.

But Tallman still affectionately recalls the Oliver 70.

During World War II, it was difficult to purchase a complete tractor because of the war materials rationing. His father purchased Old Number 1 in 1939 at a cost of $1,250, said Robert. His brother purchased another Oliver 70, which, because of the war, was tough to do. Robert said you had to "apply to the government agencies to get certification to apply for one, if you could find one." George purchased the tractor in 1943, without the rubber tires, the starter, or the generator. Cost was about $900.

In 1950, they sold the Cletrac HG 68, featured in the calendar. The tractor was originally sold to a customer in 1950 and bought back in 1985, when Robert got serious about restoring farm tractors.

According to the calendar company, the tractor was "perfect for potato growers. The 68-inch track width was ideal for the 34-inch rows they planted. The model offered a choice of four different track widths: 31-, 42-, 60-, and 68 inches." The tractor had a four-cylinder flathead Hercules engine (1,700 rpm) that developed 22 horsepower on the drawbar and 27 horsepower on the belt. It had three forward speeds and an operating weight of 3,513 pounds.

The tractor will be featured in a video and on a 20- by 30-inch poster with 14 other restored tractors on the calendar.

With headquarters in Chicago, Ill., Oliver constructed the wheel tractors in Charles City, Iowa and the crawler tractors at the plant in Cleveland, Ohio (after purchasing the Cleveland Tractor Company in 1944).

Of the 20 tractors in storage, Tallman has restored only about a quarter of them. It's a matter of finding time and an "Oliver ally to work with me," he said.

The Oliver Company was eventually sold to the White Motor Company in November 1960. A succession of acquisitions followed until White was acquired by Agco a few years ago.

Tallman said the national Oliver assocation was founded in December 1989 and numbers 3,000 strong. He hopes to someday find a friend to help him bring Old Number 1 back to its original condition.

Correct Soil Testing Is Excellent Tool

NORCROSS, Ga. — Tools are made for specific purposes. Use them right and they are great aids. Use them wrong and who knows what the result may be. A screwdriver used as a pry-bar may only cost you the price of a new screwdriver, but misusing a soil test could cost you yield... and profit!

Soil testing is an important tool and should certainly be used to its full advantage. It is, none the less, only one of the many important management tools and considerations that are used in developing fertilizer plans for high yield programs. Other factors include:

• Total crop nutrient uptake at a given yield goal. This needs careful attention. Yield potential is difficult to accurately predict. It is subject to many variables, some controllable, some not. A good approach is to average yields over the past five years and add 5 or 10 percent in accordance with plans to achieve that additional yield.

• Crop quality. Are there specific market requirements that must be met to obtain a premium? Additional nutrients or in-season management strategies may be necessary to achieve a certain protein level, fruit size, or other market standard.

• Local climatic conditions. Are there special conditions limiting or enhancing yield potential that should be considered? Cold growing conditions in the spring could mean that starter fertilizer should be applied regardless of soil test levels. A short growing season requires that the crop get off to a quick start for maximum yield... another reason for using starter fertilizer. On the other hand, a particular field may benefit from a south facing exposure or from favorable air drainage that enhances its yield potential.

• Specific soil characteristics. Are there plow pans, shallow bed rock or other restrictions that limit yield potential in any part of the field? Or is the soil in excellent physical condition...deep, well-drained and capable of producing a bumper crop? Deep sandy soils require special care in managing nitrogen to prevent leaching below the root zone. A uniform field can be precisely managed in regards to its specific characteristics. A non-uniform field will require some adjustments, to prevent underfertilizing part of the field or overfertilizing another part. This problem is being addressed with site-specific management and new variable rate technology.

• Grower level of management intensity. Are your committed to higher yields? Are you capable of producing higher yields? Let the track record do the talking. The importance of management cannot be overemphasized. It is the very foundation of yield potential. Every decision from planting through harvest can significantly impact final yield ... positively or negatively.

Soil testing offers basic information about selected chemical and physical properties of a field. Used regularly it tracks nutrient trends, suggesting the adequacy of past fertilizer practices and indicating future direction. It is a useful management tool in developing fertilizer plans for high yield programs.

And remember, continued use of soil testing is a foundation to sound nutrient management decisions, higher yields, and higher profits.

"A strong, prudent board of directors challenges management and staff to seek the greatest return on our investment in ADC, creating the highest net return to its members back on the farm."
—Richard & Janet Kriebel
Benton, PA

ADC Is the Place To Be

A high net return and a strong board of directors – the outstanding benefits that Richard and Janet Kriebel refer to – are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be."

Perceptions

From gleaning through the past year's papers, and from ongoing coverage of events, organizations and institutions, the perspective is that 1995 was a tough year for many people — those directly involved in agriculture and those working in other vocations.

There is no doubt that American agriculture has become more condensed. Cooperative mergers, processor mergers, fewer businesses involved and more foreign ownership of food processing and distribution all indicate the year continued the trend of recent years toward a bottom-line driven industry.

To draw an analogy, the industry appears to be undergoing a process of "metamorphism."

The definition of the term is specific. When the basic constitution of a rock changes and becomes more compact and crystaline because of the effects of heat, pressure and water, the process is called "metamorphism."

It is the process that changes coal into a diamond.

If agriculture were to be considered a "rock," then it could be viewed as undergoing the process of metamorphism.

Whether or not the pressures on agriculture result in a diamond, the change has been happening.

To give the year some historical perspective, the breakup of the former Soviet Union and the consequent reorganizational efforts there have had significant effects on business in the United States.

No longer do we have a large common enemy with a name and a face. Without a common enemy, people tend to seek out new causes for which to fight and it seems that for now, the fights are among ourselves.

As people attempt to position themselves for a secure life and attempt to digest the onslaught of technology that has been created and discovered, it can be expected that this virtual "pushing and shoving" will continue.

It seems that it has been a tough year because of all the changes and so many uncertainties about all aspects of life for so many people.

Mostly, it seems that people have been uncertain about everyday things such prices, markets, policies, leaders, regulations, freedoms, privileges, taxes, truth of information, and personal safety.

Uncertainty was evident this past year in national politics with continued episodic battles between the House and Senate Republicans, the Democrats, the President and his administration, and the Washington and sensationalistic media.

Many times national news coverage of Washington and our national leaders were at best displays of juvenile tantrums and power-mongering.

There are plenty of examples of heated battles closer to home.

State government has undergone some upheaval under the influence of Gov. Tom Ridge, a former U.S. Congressman from Erie who took office this year, the influence of Republican majorities in the Senate and House, and that of influential or concerned citizens.

The state Department of Environmental Resources — which was seen as a bloated, underfunded, politically influenced anathema to common sense — was divided into two houses.

The regulatory bureaus and divisions of the former DER have been lumped under the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) with the name outlining its mission.

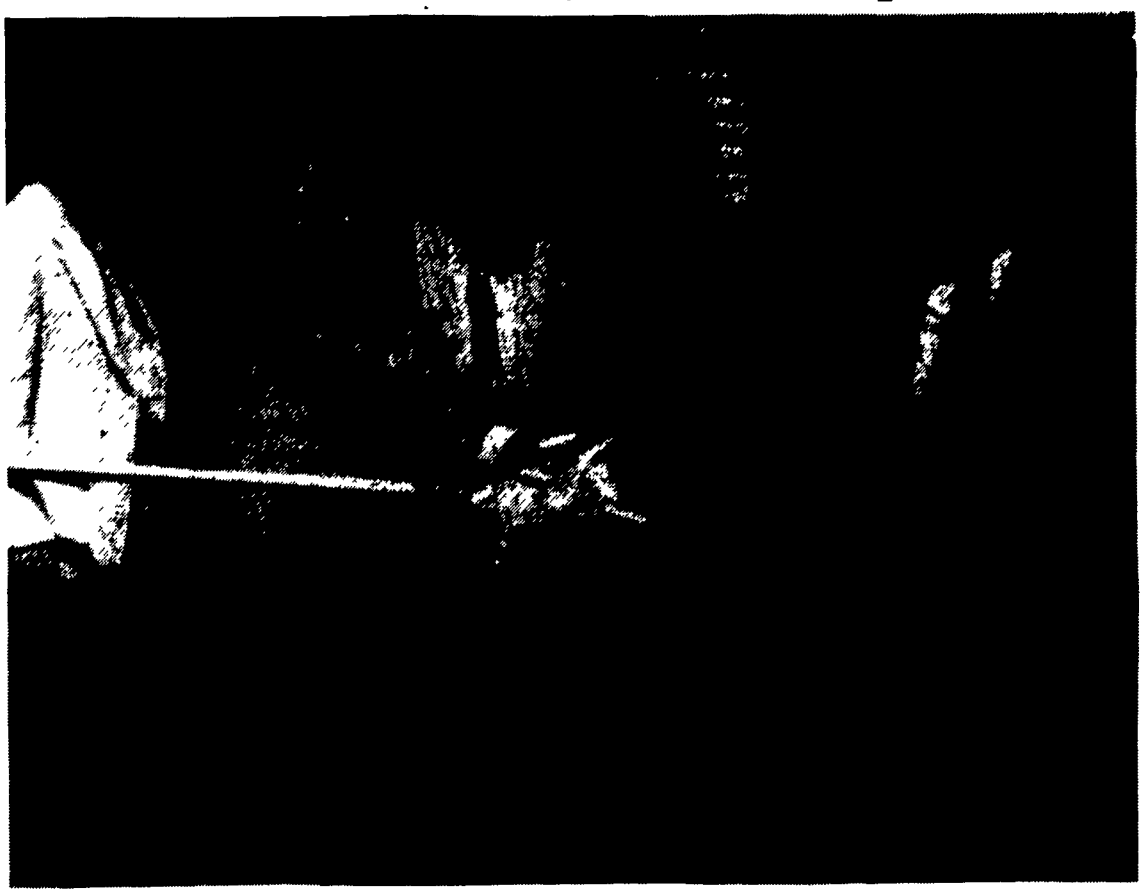
The state forests, minerals and park system have been given their own house at the governor's cabinet level — the Department of Conservation of Natural Resources.

Further, Ridge appointed cabinet secretaries to run his administrative agencies with the mission directive that they are to help achieve success with compliance by working with companies in a cooperative manner.

Like the "good cop, bad cop" contrast, the trend is to get away from the perception of state agencies enforcing regulations through overworked, civil servant tough guys with a heartless, by-the-book enforcer approach.

Instead the workers are to have concern about the possible consequences of destroying business.

According to a recent published report, DEP did not fine businesses this year as much as DER had been, and has been working with problem business to find acceptable alternatives to environmental problems.



From the left, Daniel Hagen, past dean of the PSU College of Agricultural Sciences Lamartine Hood Obie Snider, state Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius, and Harry Roth of Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, cut the ribbon on the $5.5 million dairy research center.

With the appointment of Chester County mushroom agribusinessman Charles Brosius as secretary of agriculture, Ridge said he was selecting someone who shared his concern of helping people to stay in business, through education and through working diligently to get Pennsylvania commodities marketed.

O. Frank DeGarcia, the executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board wore a number of different hats in 1995.

In addition to running the PMMB which protects consumers and ensures that producers get their proper milk check, he also is council persident for the city of Harrisburg.

In that role, he was also instrumental in helping establish a relationship between Pennsylvania and Hidalgo and Vera Cruz, Mexico. As a result, a group of Mexican delegates visited Pennsylvania this year meeting with state senators, the governor, Secretary Brosius and DeGarcia.

From the left, Pennsylvanian John Cope, elected president of the National Holstein Association, talks with outgoing president John Selz during the national convention held this year in Pittsburgh.

They toured different businesses and discussed using facilities to market goods. A large shipment of Pennsylvania cattle to Mexico was a result of those talks.

The enhancement of the state's natural resources and its park system, and advertising it to attract tourists, along with trying to get manufacturing and exporting increased to even more significant levels has become the strategy for getting the state out of its economic doldrums.

Background

The end of the Cold War caused the loss of a reason to work and spend money for many, many people, including all American people — i.e. the government.

The negative economic and social effects of ending the Cold War and trying to pay off the national debt were and are expected to be great.

Exporting American goods and services has been seen as a way to replace the jobs for the military/industrial labor force that had been built up tremendously since the turn of the century (and even more so during the presidency of Ronald Regan) in the fight of "communism."

The nation has been left with tremendous debt from its wars and peacetime military/industrial growth.

To help fight the Cold War, the United States had built up businesses in nations such as Germany, Japan, and the Republic of Korea, and set up protectionist trade agreements whereby those countries, some small and resource poor, could build wealth in the face of neighboring dirt-poor communist nations. (Some of the communist nations built phony "model" cities close to borders so that anti-communists could see how well people were living.)

Over the years, unrealistic work compensation demands by American labor unions, a get-mine greed ethic, and seemingly ridiculous legal liabilities against American manufactures, the businesses that America helped build overseas have helped to put many Americans out of work and on the streets.

Now, at the end of the Cold War, the reason to continue trade agreements which protect other nations' economies at the expense of American business has gotten harder to justify.

Overpopulation has again become a prominent word as refugees from all over the world continue to enter America to escape the horrors of tyrany, terrorism, ignorance and poverty.

Further, some large corporations have become "global" and continue to take advantage of low wages, poor living conditions and

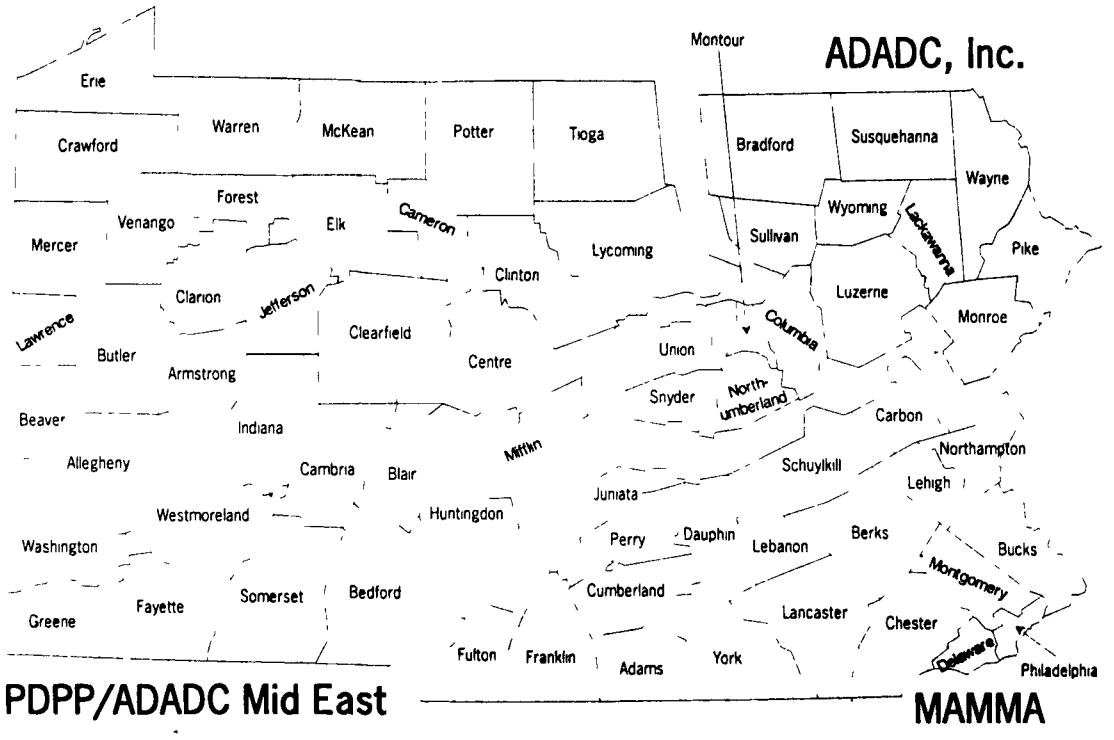
Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Service Areas



The PDPP/Mid-East ADADC, MAMMA and ADADC Inc. in New York have struck a cooperative agreement to become more efficient in using dairy farmer funds to promote milk. The state is now split up in responsibility between the three groups, working all together to prevent duplication of effort and waste.

Seven Public Meetings, Four Hearings Set For Nutrient Regs

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Notice was given this week by the Pennsylvania Conservation Commission that seven public information meetings and four public hearings will be held on the proposed regulations for nutrient management on farms within the state.

The proposed regulations would require those farms with over 2,000 pounds (liveweight) of livestock per acre of land suitable for the application of manure to develop and implement a nutrient management plan. Farms that do not meet these criteria are encouraged to develop nutrient management plans under these regulations as well. These proposed regulations are mandated by the Nutrient Management Act (Act 6 at 1993).

Public Information Meetings

The State Conservation Commission will hold seven public information meetings for the purpose of discussing the proposed regulations and answering questions. No formal recording of questions or comments will be done at these meetings. The meetings will be held on the following dates and times: Jan. 30, 6:30-9:30 p.m., Somerset County Vo-Tech, RD #5, Vo-Tech Road, Somerset; Jan. 31, 6;30-9:30 p.m., The Leslie N. Firth Learning Center, The Home of Mercer County Extension, PO Box 530 (Route 19, 1 mi. north of Mercer), Mercer; Feb. 1, 6:30-9:30 p.m., Wysox Fire Hall, On Lake Road, off the intersection of Routes 6 and 187, Wysox; Feb. 8, 6:30-9:30 p.m., Brynwood Inn, Routes 15 and 45, Lewisburg; Feb. 12, 6:30-9:30 p.m., Shippensburg Senior High School, 201 Eberly Drive, Shippensburg; Feb. 13, 12:30-3:30 p.m. and 6:30-9:30 p.m., Farm & Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road Lane, Lancaster.

Public Hearings

The State Conservation Commission will hold four public hearings for the purpose of accepting comments on the proposed regulations. The hearings will be held at 7 p.m. on the following dates: March 4, Somerset County Vo-Tech, RD #5, Vo-Tech Road, Somerset; March 5, The Leslie N. Firth Learning Center, The Home of Mercer County Extension, PO Box 530 (Route 19, 1 mi. north of Mercer), Mercer; March 6, Brynwood Inn, Routes 15 & 45, Lewisburg; March 11, Farm & Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

Persons wishing to present testimony at the hearings must contact Karl Brown at the State Conservation Commission, Room 304, Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110, (717) 787-8821, at least one week in advance of the hearing to reserve a time to present testimony. Oral testimony will be limited to ten minutes for each witness, and three written copies of the oral testimony must be submitted at the hearing. Each organization is requested to designate one witness to present testimony on its behalf.

In lieu of or in addition to presenting oral testimony at the hearings, interested persons may submit written comments, suggestions, or objections regarding the proposal to the State Conservation Commission, Room 304, Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110. Comments must be received by March 29, 1996. Comments received by facsimile (fax) will not be accepted. In addition to the written comments, interested persons may submit a summary of their comments to the State Conservation Commission. The summary will be provided to each member of the State Conservation Commission in the agenda packet distributed prior to the meeting at which the final regulation will be considered.

If you are a person with a disability and wish to attend any of these meetings or hearings and you require an auxiliary aid, service or other accommodation to participate in the proceedsing, please contact David Reed at (717) 772-5649, or the AT&T Relay Service at 800-654-5984 (TDD users) to discuss how your needs may be accommodated.

Copies of the Proposal

Copies of this regulatory proposal and additional information may be obtained from Karl Brown, State Conservation Commission, Room 304, Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisbug, PA 17110, (717) 787-8821.

Governor Honors Md. Century Farm Families

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — In only the second ceremony of its kind in Maryland, Governor Parris N. Glendening honored 18 families from across the state whose farms have remained in the same family for a century or more.

Glendening presented the families with a certificate from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, recognizing their longevity in farming and a sign declaring their operation to be a "Maryland Century Farm."

"These farm families represent not only a strong tradition, but our hope for the future. They have demonstrated a clear commitment to keep their farms as family-run businesses," said Glendening.

Maryland established the Century Farm Program to honor those families whose farms have been in the same family for more than 100 consecutive years, contain at least 10 of the original acres, and gross more than $2,500 annually from the sale of farm products.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley presided over the ceremony that included families from Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot, Wicomico, and Worcester counties.

"This is a continuous program and we are still accepting applications. We made 35 awards in 1994 and 18 more this year. If you think your farm might qualify, please fill out an application," Riley said.

Applications may be obtained from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, from local cooperative extension service offices, or over the internet (http://www.mda.state.md.us/mda).

Century Farm families honored in 1995:

- Carroll County — John and Illona Hull and Helen and John Totura.
- Cecil County — Clarence Brown and Delmar and Dorothy Farmer.
- Dorchester County — John and Suzanne Trice.
- Frederick County — Paul and Val Bussard and Mehrle and Thelma Ramsburg, Jr.
- Garrett County — Harold and Helen Harris.
- Harford County — George, Betty and Thomas Grier.
- Kent County — Walter Harris, Louise Lusby, and Harry and Elizabeth Williams.
- Queen Anne's County — James Thomas Rhodes, Sr. and William, Ellen, Wendy and Allison Walmsley.
- St. Mary's County — P. Jones Thompson.
- Talbot County — Lewis Smith.
- Wicomico County — Raymond and Joyce Adkins.
- Worchester County — Roger Richardson.

desperation in other parts of the world to manufacture goods at higher profits.

America has more people, fewer high-paying jobs per person, and fewer exports than before the fight against communism started.

The perception is that America is in the midst of attempting to heal itself after such a long and costly battle.

Recovery may be exacerbated by the massive urban sprawl and commuter migration that has taken place across the United States, especially during the past 10 to 20 years.

Further, public confidence in American institutions seems to have dwindled to the point that cleaning house and holding no institution or person special is increasing.

Ernie Preate, the former state attorney general this week was taken to start serving a 14-month out-of-state prison sentence for a guilty plea of mail fraud related to allegations of trading favors for campaign contributions.

The state Game Commission's executive director was fired this year and the state attorney general's office began an investigation (reportedly unrelated to the director firing) into several allegations of back-dating beginning dates of employment so to enhance salaries and pension levels.

Early in the year, U.S. Agriculture Secretary Mike Epsy who resigned under allegations of misconduct in accepting gratuities from Tyson Foods Inc., was replaced by Dan Glickman, a former U.S. representative from the Midwest.

Also an ongoing investigation into price-fixing was initiated against Archer-Daniel Midland, "The supermarket to the world."

Perceptions of change also extend to the weather.

The weather patterns seemed to drift out of that of the past 10 years or so.

According to some reports, the effects of the "El Nino" (Spanish for "The Child") have stopped.

The El Nino is a warm equatorial Pacific Ocean phenomenon that has been blamed for causing a series of storms and storm-causing weather patterns to hit the coast of the Northwest at different places than typically expected for the season.

In the past decade, we experienced perhaps the worst flood of the Mid-West in recent history, some of the worst droughts, some of the mildest winters, and one of the harshest springs, and we saw heat and cold records broken.

One part of the nation would be in drought while the other part was flooded.

For the first time in many years, this year saw substantial snowfall and freezing temperatures by late November. For many years in a row, we had received the worst of winter during late winter months into early spring.

The early snow was not a blessing for those who had been getting into the practice of supplementing milk cows, and especially dry cows and heifers on rye cover crops or pasture through late November into December.

This year's drought which went from late August into October, when rainfall was above average, killed some crops, depending on soil type and date of planting.

Most farmers and extension agents have reported good or higher than expected harvests of corn and soybean, given the lateness of the drought.

However, stands of corn were affected in that normal carbohydrate formation — the energy in the corn seed — was stopped by the drought at a crucial time.

The effects of weather on the nutritional value of feed crops are all too apparent to those having to double silage amounts, or purchase expensive supplements to keep producing milk and meat.

And despite record carryover of corn from 1994, prices in the national grain market report for Dec. 20 showed a $1.20- to $1.30-per bushel increase above last year at the same time.

Milk prices aren't enough to cover the costs of milking cows in some areas.

With beef prices down, some processors have claimed (in business journals) to be making strong profits, but the rank and file dairymen and non-contract beef farmers aren't fairing so well.

With recent years' spate of way-below production prices for swine, the state lost many independent hog producers.

At the same time, the state and nation's few processors were able to buy hogs at less cost than they could afford to produce in their contract production facilities.

With many competitive independents now out of business, the hog price has recovered, but as more large contract swine houses went up this past year or are under construction, as well as the recent disease control practices effectively preventing small producers from selling at feeder markets, it isn't expected that too many independent producers will start back up.

Those attempting to keep the family farm by entering into a production contract agreement have been heading face-to-face with objecting, disgruntled neighbors — not all of them non-farmers — over odor and flies.

With poultry production as controlled as it is by companies, rather than independent producers, it was difficult to assess heat mortality losses this summer. Though some independent producers reported some significant mortality, overall the losses were not great in Pennsylvania, according to a federal market watcher.

Overall during the year, there didn't seem to be as much fear from public misunderstanding associated with animal welfare and agricultural production.

While not citing a formal study, it has become apparent over the past 10 to 15 years that with so many lost labor and professional jobs accross the nation, there have been great increases in quasi-political organizations. The motto of some of these people seems to be: "Find a cause, market the cause and make some money."

The nation's capital has long been fertile soil for charlatans.

With the advent of fascimile machines, and now the computer Internet, for relatively low overhead it has been proven possible to conduct a publicity sham campaign touting planned protests of news-making significance, while at the same time, seeking funds.

There have been some groups that have claimed large followings and threatened great consumer rejections at fast food restaurants — though the claims of boycotts never came through.

(It's easier to persuade people to donate money if they believe others are doing it. The New Era "Ponzi" investment scheme involved millions of dollars provided by religous groups, nonprofit retirement groups, etc., and according to published reports most of the people who decided to invest did so because others were doing so, or recommended it, not because it made the least amount of sense.)

Overall, a few anti-agriculture groups (some headed by the same people who have established different causes and thus nonprofit funds accepting donations), seem to have slipped further out of public credibility.

The work of agriculture advocacy groups such as People For the Responsible Use of Animals (PRUA), which was created to combat the lies and disinformation campaigns of anti-ag groups, gained additional prominence and recognition during the year, though the work needed to educate the public is still great.

Efforts in Washington this year to make lobbyists register and others to come clean with their purposes may help.

From his front lawn, Tom Williams, 1995 Dauphin County Conservation Farmer of the Year, addresses an audience observing the 60th anniversary of the USDA's conservation efforts. From the left, sitting, are program participants Bernard Hoffnar, executive director of the Pa. Association of Conservation Districts; George Wolff, agricultural/environmental lobbyist; Janet Oertly, state conservationist NRCS; Brad Hicks, television newscaster; Charles Broslus, secretary of agriculture; Rep. Sheila Miller, R-Berks; and Richard VanNoy, chief of the Division of Conservation Districts.

Milestones

It was a year for milestones with 50- and 100-year anniversaries celebrated by several different groups and agencies.

This year, among other event we celebrated the 50th anniversary of World War II, the 100th anniversary of the state Department of Agriculture, the 100th anniversary of the state Game Commission, the 100th anniversary of the New Holland Company, the 100th anniversary of Purina, and the 60th anniversary of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (or rather the effort since the agency was renamed), among others.

Also, we recognized the 40th anniversary of Lancaster Farming, and the fact that it had been 40 years since the Republican Party had been in control of the U.S. House of Representatives.

While these milestones are a tribute to longevity, more important to each one are the changes over the years.

Another important milestone to Pennsylvania was the groundbreaking for a new PDA diagnostic laboratory adjacent to the PDA building in Harrisburg. Construction was ongoing this week and visitors to the state Farm Show can look across Cameron Street to see a large crane and construction equipment.

The laboratory is important for several reasons: it will help Pennsylvania's agricultural exporting program and reduce the cost and time of testing animals for health; it is part of a statwide tripartite system that can quickly diagnose and communicate essential information to animal and human medical care professionals; and with heavy concentrations of people and animals, especially in southcentral Pennsylvania, the state will have a strong tool to help fight the very real threat of devastating disease being spread among animals and between people and animals.

In connection with the division of DER, the year will probably also be remembered for how the State Conservation Commission (which oversees conservation districts and is integral to carrying out the state's Nutrient Management Act) went from being a DEP-staffed organization chaired by the secretary of DEP, to one situated in the Department of Agriculture building with an independent staff and a rotating chair between the secretaries of DEP and PDA.

An important legislative milestone was the passage of laws to facilitate the reuse of industrial sites without having to detoxifiy the sites to pre-industrial conditions. Under a government-industry partnership, an acceptable comprise is to be worked out in containing onsite contaminations and to allow industry to again use what are for the most part abandoned areas blighting many of the state's cities and towns.

The first legislation for local tax reform just recently was passed and, according to a Senate ananlysis of Senate Bill 2, "is to allow local governments the option of reducing property taxes by simplifying their local tax system (through the elimination of nuisance taxes), by collecting an income tax.

"With voter approval, counties would have the option of imposing a sales tax. Voters would also have the option of becoming a Home Rule school district (for tax structure purposes only).

"Voter approval would be needed before a local government could collect the new taxes. Once property taxes are reduced, future property tax increases would require voter approval."

A court-ordered countywide tax reassessment for Lancaster has caused a lot of headaches for farmers and landowners here. Whether or not local tax reform becomes effective enough to prevent people from leaving their farms is uncertain, but because of problems with the reassessments, implementation has been postponed.

Dairy promotion in Pennsylvania was completely revised as a new merger and cooperative agreements were established.

A longstanding dispute between rival entities working to secure solid promotion programs and dependable flows of funding was finally resovled this July.

On July 1, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program merged with the Mid-East UDIA to form Mid East ADADC.

It gets a little complicated, but the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association (MAMMA) had been operating in the southeast part of the state, overlapping some areas hit by the PDPP and by the New York ADADC Inc.

What has happened is that now the PDPP board of directors remains intact and oversees the marketing programming for 33 counties in central and western Pennsylvania, while MAMMA has 20 in the southcentral and southeast, and ADADC Inc. has the northeast quarter's 14 counties.

The divisions were made according to population areas and media areas, as well as reflecting the location of certain dairy farmer promotion funds.

The result is an end to the disputes over funding and better efficiency in getting the most dairy promotion for the least amount of dollar.h

The PDPP effort is now part of the effort to promote dairy products on behalf of dairy producers in Ohio, West Virginia, nothern Kentucky and Pennsylvania.

The state Farm Link Program saw its first success this year. The Farm-Link Program is a part of the Center For Rural Pennsylvania, a legislative organization. Farm Link has a mission of helping to bring older and younger generation people together to attempt to work out a person-to-person agreement on transferring the farm.

It's an attempt to stem the loss of family farms.

The National Holstein Convention was held in Pennsylvania this past year, only the sixth time in the organization's 110-history.

The National Grange also held its convention in the Keystone State, marking a significant honor for the Pennsylvania State Grange.

The Chesapeake Bay Executive Council approved a local initiative program while Gov. Ridge in remarks said that farmers apparently are not as much to blame for the high nitrogen levels in the Susquehanna River and that more work needed to be done with wastewater treatment plant discharge nitrogen releases.

The Game Commission approved deer permits to farmers to give out for an off-season hunting season. After years of requesting a useful and safe program with farmer control, the commission finally gave it so that crop-damaging deer can be shot and harvested during the early spring and late summer.

The commission requires that a farm be enrolled in the commission's Hot Spot program for several years, and allow public access during regular season.

Other highlights of the year:

• Lancaster Dairy Herd Improvement Association became a national affiliate this past year and reports doing well.

• Pa.DHIA pioneered milk urea nitrogen testing for its members and also performance economics.

• Penn State dedicated a new $5.5 million dairy cattle research center.

• A world record for milk production was set in May with Raim Mark Jinx, a registered Holstein, making 60,440 pounds of milk in 365 days. She made 1,938 pounds of fat and 1,884 pounds of protein. She was milked three times per day and was given bovine somatotropin.

Cooperative Councils Selected State Winners

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The National Planning Committee for October Cooperative Month is pleased to announce that the Cooperative Council of North Carolina and the Kansas Cooperative Council will be honored for outstanding cooperative service on behalf of the cooperative community.

Each year, the committee recognizes a state cooperative council or organization whose activities during the past cooperative month celebration best illustrates the theme, "Cooperatives—Expanding People's Horizons." The awards will be presented during the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives' annual meeting Jan. 24 in Washington, D.C.

"We are honored to present this award to two states who have done an outstanding job communicating the cooperative message to their local communities," said Sheldon C. Petersen, chairman of the National Cooperative Month Planning Committee. "Both the Cooperative Council of North Carolina and the Kansas Cooperative Council exemplify this year's Cooperative Month theme."

The Cooperative Council of North Carolina brought cooperation to new heights by using hot air balloons to celebrate co-op month. Held in three strategic cities across the state, the colorful balloons attracted attention and provided the opportunity for co-op employees to share with the public how cooperatives expand people's horizons. A local radio personality broadcasted from the event—once from high up in the hot air balloon—and helped promote cooperatives to his radio audience.

The Kansas Cooperative Council opened new lines of cooperative communication by organizing three legislative luncheons, giving cooperators and legislators an opportunity to get better acquainted. The lawmakers were all surprised to learn how many cooperatives businesses and employees they had in their districts. Local co-ops—from credit unions to farm supply—shared the co-op message by conducted coloring contests that reached more than 1,000 school children, essay and poster contests, barbecues and open houses, and food drives that included cooperative brand foods.

The cooperative community has been celebrating October Cooperative Month for more than 60 years. Cooperative month activities are coordinated by Washington, D.C.-based committees and are sponsored by more than 20 national cooperative organizations and government agencies with special cooperative relationships.

Melinda Tercha

NYFEA ESSAY CONTEST WINNER

The National Young Farmers Educational Association (NYFEA) has announced that Melinda Tercha placed 2nd in the national essay contest held in Charleston, S.C. recently.

Melinda and her husband Robert live in Mertztown, and they belong to the Kutztown YF chapter. They farm in partnership with Robert's parents managing of 500 acres, owned and rented. They grow corn, soybeans, hay, and wheat, and raise some beef and hogs for market.

Melinda teachers preschoolers nine months out of the year. Her hobbies include photography, sewing, crafts, and writing poetry.

The Tercha belong to many farm organizations including young farmers, Grange, church, Berks extension board, and Christ UCC Church in Bowers, where Melinda sings on the choir.

The following is Melinda Tercha's winning essay.

Farmers Are Also Consumers

Consumers in the '90s, as they drive through the countryside, view us simply as "the farmer down the road."

These consumers are giving us more than a compliment. They are speaking about a diverse minority of people that have come about through generations of hard work, tilling the soil, and those same people harvesting a crop.

As we near the turn of the century, it is a task we farmers will have to undertake as we update our consumer neighbors to just what it is we do on the farm. Farmers can now inform these people that our farming practices of today not only are adding yields, but are adding quality and safety to the nation's food supply.

Farmers are able to do this with the assistance of extension agents, help from agronomy consultants, and attending young farmers workshops.

Safety plays a big part in today's farming schedule. Pesticides and herbicides are being used at lesser rates and with safer application practices and equipment. Consumers should be made aware that government regulates and restricts the use of chemicals on the farm. We all need to be aware that chemicals used properly at recommended rates are a needed tool that help us to provide consumers with quality food at economical prices.

There are research-based extension education programs on integrated pest management that help farmers to reduce the use of pesticides. Also, researchers have developed soil nitrogen tests that allow us to reduce the amount of fertilizer that we as farmers need to apply to our fields.

Through continued use of soil conservation practices, consumers should note that soil erosion is kept at a minimum. Farmers are as serious about solving soil erosion problems as many consumers are. Many farmers plant waterways to help control washing and runoff in fields. Contour planting and terraces also aid in prevention of water damage to sloping or hillside fields.

One out of every five jobs in America is related to some form of agriculture. That is one large reason that farmers need to continue with some form of agriculture education. Young farmer conventions and local young farmer chapters provide workshops and seminars on current issues involving the farm.

I wonder how many consumers realize that computers play a big part in many dairy operations in many different capacities. There is a great need in rural economics in Pennsylvania today for the dairy industry. So, in effect, farmers have to make better management decisions to keep costs on the farm down. These same farmers also have to improve herd health status and emphasize problem solving on the farm. More important key words we are looking for are "prevention of problems." Along with all the things I have mentioned, we need to look for labor saving practices.

There are many different and diverse farming operations out there in the '90s. As a dwindling minority, we need to continue to educate ourselves as well as the consumer. We can and do strive to work for a safe and efficient way to provide consumers with our products.

Farmers are also consumers, and along with our consumer neighbors we deserve quality products at an economical and fair price.

Water Law, Rights Meeting Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — In May, the Susquehanna River Basin Commission approved changes to water use regulations. Some of these changes will impact agriculture, especially those who irrigate.

As a result, a meeting has been scheduled to update the agriculture community on Jan. 3 in the basement meeting room of the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster from 8:30 a.m. until noon.

All new surface water withdrawals greater than 100,000 gallons per day must be approved by the SRBC and all surface and groundwater withdrawals greater than 10,000 gallons per day must be registered with the SRBC upon the consent of the SRBC member states. The registration period for current users runs until March 31, 1997. Pennsylvania and Maryland support the registration program.

At the meeting, topics will include benefits of registering water use for the agriculture community, consumptive water use in agriculture, and managing irrigation systems to conserve water.

To register, contact Leon Ressler, Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 394-6851.

Santorum To Address Republicans

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Senator Rick Santorum will be the keynote speaker at the 1996 annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Ag Republicans. The meeting is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 8th in Room C of the Farm Show building in Harrisburg. The entire membership is encouraged to attend this meeting. Agenda items for the meeting include upcoming dates, event announcements, and committee reports on membership, public relations, legislation, and state committee, given by the various chairpersons. See you at the Farm Show.—Bev Gruber.

MAKING THE 1996 PA. FARM SHOW THE BEST EVER!

As young people from around the commonwealth prepare their junior breeding and market animals for the 1996 PA Farm Show, I am certain they have their own ideas about what they expect from their mid-winter experience in Harrisburg.

Most want to win, but all of them want to exhibit.

Most of us associated with junior livestock programs in Pennsylvania realize that the young people who exhibit livestock are winners. But what will it take to make the 1996 Pennsylvania Farm Show junior livestock shows the best ever?

I am certain there are several things that come to mind, but let me share four items that I believe will provide the foundation for a tremendous display of junior livestock projects at Farm Show.

Safety

Our first priority always should be safety! Consider the following situations:

• Traveling to and from the show ring, a heifer is "spooked," and what happens next is anyone's guess. What should we do? Gather the heifer . . . remain calm . . . find an isolated spot out of the general flow of people.

• Driving hogs to and from the show ring, a pig gets its head down between the legs of a 4-year-old and the next thing you know the pig is trotting down the alley with a screaming, scared youngster draped across its shoulders. What should we do? Grab the child around the torso (grabbing him by the arm or leg could cause more harm) . . . remain calm . . . let someone else gather the pig.

• The gate to a sheep pen has been left open slightly . . . as a Suffolk yearling ewe pushes on the open gate, the gate begins to fall to the ground because it was improperly fastened at the other end. What should we do? Grab the gate and securely fasten the hinged end . . . remain calm . . . let someone else gather the ewe and return her to the pen. A falling gate will probably cause more damage than a ewe in the alleyway. This episode is not so absurd, as an improperly secured gate at KILE fell on a youngster and broke his femur.

Take care of the most dangerous aspect of the situation first!

General rule number 18 on page 11 of the Pa. Farm Show Premium List states, "Any movement of animals from one place to another within the Farm Show Complex must be done with two people controlling the movement, one person to lead or control the animal, the other to position him/herself to provide cautionary warnings to the public."

Whenever we mix animals and humans in unfamiliar surroundings, especially with the number of spectators who visit the Farm Show annually, we undoubtedly experience some potentially dangerous situations. Remain calm!

Timeliness

A quick glance at the schedule of events for the Pa. Farm Show clearly indicates that there is a considerable number of events occurring simultaneously.

Become familiar with where and when specific activities are to be held. It is the exhibitor's responsibility to know where to be at a given time. This would include the following Junior Livestock rule on page 36 of the Pa. Farm Show Premium List:

Exhibitor Responsibility — It is the responsibility of the exhibitor to see that their animal is present at the specified time and place for weighing, showing, and selling.

A schedule of activities pertinent to the junior livestock shows (arrival, check-in, weighing, showing, and selling) are listed below. If you have questions, refer to the premium list or consult the appropriate chairperson of the species.

Cooperation

Most exhibitors and staff have considerable time commitments at Farm Show and are not looking for something else to occupy their time, but situations arise where a "helping hand" is welcomed graciously.

Exhibitors help other exhibitors fit, lead, show, etc., and the sharing of volunteer staff is not uncommon.

To make the 1996 Pa. Farm Show the best ever, lend a helping hand when asked or, better yet, volunteer to help. The staff at Farm Show will appreciate the extra effort and other exhibitors will be grateful as well.

Sportsmanship

Graciously accept defeat, and humbly embrace victory!

Disbaraging remarks about the judge, a competitor's animal, show management, other exhibitors, breed representatives, show officials, or any other aspect of the Pa. Farm Show only serve to undermine the positive attributes of the show and its purpose.

Remember, the judge will be hired to provide us with his opinion of the animals presented before him on a given day in a particular arena. He may not be right, but he will be official, and we may even learn something in the process!

A friendly handshake goes a long way to ensuring the success of junior livestock show. I hope to see a lot of people shaking hands, not fists, at the 1996 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Let's make it the BEST FARM SHOW ever!

Couple Gains National Post

NASHVILLE, TN — For the second year running, a Young Cooperator couple from Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association (MVMPCA) has been elected to national young Cooperator officer status.

Melvin and Barbara Marks, who operate a 50-cow dairy near Airville, were elected secretary couple of the National Milk Producers Fedration (NMPF) Young Cooperator Advisory Council.

Each year, Young Cooperator representatives from each of five regions across the country are elected to serve on the council. The council itself then elects three officer couples from among its members.

"It's quite an honor for us to be serving as officers," says Barbara Marks. "As secretary couple, we look forward to filling a need to communicate with other council members as the year progresses."

The NMPF YC council is responsible for planning and implementing next year's NMPF Young Cooperator program which will be held in Anaheim, Cal. The Markses are taking over the council position held by Maryland and Virginia Young Cooperators David and Terry Rice, Williamsburg.

The Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association is a milk marketing cooperative made up of 1200 dairy producers in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Delaware.

Pa. Jr. Holstein Association To Hold Convention

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Junior members of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association are gearing up for their 1996 convention to be held Feb.9-11 at the Genetti Hotel in Williamsport.

Along with the help of co-chairpersons Tim and Denise Wetzel and other adults, many junior members have been involved in the planning of the convention.

It kicks off Friday evening with commercial exhibits and the opening of a dairy bar. Later in the evening, teams are to be tested for seeding in the dairy bowl, followed by the annual meeting.

Keeping with this year's social event theme, "Night in the Ballpark," everyone attending is asked to wear an item of clothing that supports a favorite ball team. There are games and contests planned, as well as food and a dance with music provided by Jesse Lawrence, a junior Holstein member.

Saturday starts early with the dairy bowl contest and severl workshops. Additionally, two tours of the Little League Museum have been scheduled, while the Williamsport YWCA is to be available in the afternoon for swimming and other activities.

Saturday evening is highlighted by a dinner and dance with special door prizes to be awarded.

An awards breakfast is scheduled for Sunday morning with juniors to be honored for their work in Pennsylvania Holstein Association programs. Announced will be winners of the Distinguished Junior Award, scholarships, high producing cows, and others.

Featured speaker of the breakfast is to be John Rodgers, with a planned inspirational talk.

Each members must sign and have their parent(s) sign a statement outlining the rules of behavior:

1. All juniors must be in their rooms by 12:30 a.m. on Friday, and 1:30 a.m., Saturday.

2. Doors will be open at all times when mixed company is in the room.

3.Absolutely no drugs or alcohol will be used or consumed.

4. Upon registration, each junior is to name a chaperone who is to be responsible for the junior's actions. If a chaperone is not named, a chaperone will be at the hotel.

5. Anyone found destroying hotel property will be charged for damages.

6. The Convention Committee will not be responsible for anyone leaving the convention facilities without permission of the convention chairperson.

EAYF Makes Christmas Bright

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — For the past several years the Ephrata Area Young Farmers Association (EAYFA) has devoted part of their holiday celebration to helping a local family in need. The EAYFA is put in contact with an appropriate family through Ephrata Social Services. In the past, the Young Farmers have provided a traditional Christmas for the family they "adopted" for the holiday, complete with gifts, food, money, and even Christmas trees.

This year the need was not for gifts, but for money to pay basic utility bills. Through personal contributions, the EAYFA members raised the funds to pay for a family's electric, heat, telephone, and mortgage bills for January.

Farm Couple Heads National Council

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Eric and Melissa Herr are a young, optimistic couple brimming with enthusiasm for the dairy industry.

Part of that enthusiasm is generated from their life long involvement in farming and part because they participate in the Young Cooperative (YC) Leadership Program, which is for dairy co-op members 18 to 41 years.

"The National Council opens a whole new window for us," Melissa said.

"It's neat to see how it's not only dairy farmers working for the future but also how the co-op and others work to develop new markets and value-added products," Eric said.

The Herrs recently returned from Nashville, Tenn., where they participated in a YC Leadership Program. It was the fourth trip in two years awarded to the couple who represent the Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI) Dairy Cooperative to which they belong.

In their second year representing MMI, the Herrs have been elected to serve as vice chair couple for the National Milk Producers Federation.

Now that they are elected to the national advisory council, the Herrs will be taking a few more trips including one to Anaheim, Calif. next December.

But the YC program is much more important than the trips the Herrs take in representing the industry.

The trips are working sessions for the Herrs and instill a positive outlook in the young couple for a future in farming.

The Herr's involvement in the program began when the field man for MMI asked them to help build the YC program in the area.

The Herrs helped plan the fall conference and select the speakers. Issues addressed during the program included management and profitability, the family farm, care of animals, manufacturing of dairy products, and becoming a price-maker.

In July, the Herrs will accompany the advisory council to Washington D.C. to meet the national milk lobbyist and congressmen.

"I'm not one to understand all the behind-the-scenes activities in the making of the farm bill and milk pricing controls," Eric said. "It's an education to see how things work out. It gives us an opportunity to see what's going on. It's nice to know there are people working for you in Washington and on the state level. When we understand more, it helps ease our fears about the future."

The Herrs had been with Eastern Milk Producers, which then merged with Milk Marketing Inc., becoming the third largest cooperative in the U.S.

The transition was smooth, the Herrs said, because they maintained the same milk inspector and field director.

The Herrs are thrilled that MMI operates several plants to produce value-added products.

"It is exciting to learn that there are people employed full-time to research new products using dairy products. Recently they discovered a way to use whey powder (discarded in the cheese-making process) by selling it to pharmeceutical companies to use as a coating for pills. Until a few years ago, whey was basically worthless. Now it's become valuable," Eric said.

MMI is also researching ways to export to other countries.

"There is a surplus of dairy products here (U.S.) and the only way to keep milk prices strong is to export," Eric said.

"It's a long expensive process — they (MMI summit) explained all the details to us. It isn't just a simple thing to send our surplus to other countries because not every country uses butter or cheese like we do. It takes several years of learning what other countries want."

The Herrs live on what they call the second farm because it is the second farm that Eric's dad, Donald Herr, owns. The farm is along Rt. 222 South of Lancaster near Willow Street, across the fields from the home farm where Eric and his dad milk 55 cows. Most of the 130 acreage from the two farms are used for crops to feed the Herr's stock, but some is cash cropped, and 17 acres are raised in tobacco.

"My dad and I work shoulder to shoulder and share responsibility for the farm," Eric said. "Some guys would do anything to farm on their own, but not me. Farming for dad has its advantages. It wouldn't be possible to travel with YC if my dad wasn't home to pick up the slack."

Remember the young couple who with their bridal party took off from the church in a farm wagon hitched to a tractor? The article and picture appeared in Lancaster Farming on July 20, 1991. Now that couple — Eric and Melissa Herr with daughter Janae — are as committed to farming as ever and are vice chairs of the National Young Cooperator Program.

"It's a great set up," Melissa said. "It's neat that Eric has such a good relationship with his father. They work so well together."

This quality is especially valued by Melissa whose own dad and brothers work in partnership at Garber Farms in Mount Joy.

"Family — which means extended family — is of big importance to us," Melissa said.

Some older farmers frown upon traveling to meetings, but Eric said, "Dad encourages us to be involved with YC. He knows the value of learning will further the farm. And, I think that he wants to give us the opportunity he never had to get away and be refreshed."

On the opposite end of the spectrum, Eric said, "I don't want to take advantage of my dad because he deserves more time off than I do since he's older. I try to be available whenever he has the opportunity to spend time off the farm."

Melissa said that the most valuable asset in being involved with MMI is meeting other people. "Most people even if they are from different areas, have the same problems and struggles. They may say, I had the same problem two years ago and this is how I solved it.

Eric said, "There's lots of encouragement in that. We tend to think it's so bad here. Some farmers complain about this county having so much traffic and such high land prices but I think it sort of balances itself out when you look at the positives.

"We are so strong here with good vet and consulting services, markets, and the growing season that we often take it for granted," said Eric. "Living in Lancaster County, it's easy to forget that not everyone else does things likes us."

The Herrs find it fascinating to hear about growing seasons in other areas and to compare the different land values and feed prices.

"I always said that I wanted to marry a farmer," Melissa said, "but I didn't know he was going to be a

(Turn to Page B3)

The Herrs say that 2-year-old Janae is a true farm girl. Here she helps Eric feed the 55 milking cows that he and his dad milk on the 130 acres they farm.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

The Herrs believe other couples should get involved in the Young Cooperative Program that has opened up a whole new world to them. Melissa said, "A lot of people don't realize that each milk co-op has the opportunity to send members to the YC."

Farm Couple

dairy farmer until I fell in love. It's a whole new ballgame from poultry farming."

She loves the cows and enjoys helping out with the milking and stripping tobacco whenever needed.

"For me, the last four years have truely been an education to know how dairying works," she said.

Since Melissa finds dairying fascinating, the transition has been enjoyable.

"I know that farming is my husband's first love and I want to do everything possible to support him," she said.

Melissa said that some of her non-farm friends are appalled at the long hours and hard work that she does.

"Sometimes I get frustrated. I'm not the perfect little wife. But I want to support him wholeheartedly. It wasn't like I didn't know what I was getting into before I married him," Melissa said.

One of those ways to support Eric happened unexpectantly.

It began from Melissa's love for gardening. Because she loves it, she planted a large garden — too large for their small family to use. Melissa decided to sell excess produce from a flatbed wagon in front of their property. "It went gangbusters on us," Melissa said with a tinge of awe still in her voice.

The busily traveled highway is the ideal spot to sell produce. To help stock the wagon, Melissa asked her sister and her four children who grow an acre of sweet corn to bring the corn to her home to sell. It went so fast that she purchased cantalopes, tomatoes, and other produce from other farmers to sell at her stand.

Melissa is making plans to enlarge her garden next summer.

It's sort of like deju vu for her because her mother raised two acres of sugar peas to sell. "I was out in the patch since I was 5-years-old and loved it," Melissa said.

She also has relatives who operate a large grocery chain that evolved from a roadside stand.

"It's really neat that my brothers and my dad have a business together and now my sister and I are developing a business together," said Melissa.

But starting a business was far from the Herrs mind when they first began the venture. One of the priorities that Melissa and Eric had decided before marriage was that Melissa would quit her job as an office manager to be a stay-at-home mother when children came.

She did. Their daughter Janae is now 2 years old.

"I love being a stay-at-home mom. This garden stuff sort of evolved by chance but fits in well with being a stay-at-home mom," Melissa said.

Although Janae is only a toddler, she fits right into the farming lifestyle.

"When I work in the garden, Janae is perfectly content to sit and play in the dirt. She loves going to the barn. She's a true farm girl and we are delighted that she's growing up on a farm just like we did," Melissa said.

In addition to inheriting a passion for farming when Melissa married Eric, she also became entertwined in the West Lampeter Fair where Eric is vice president of the board.

"My dad was on the board ever since I remember and served as president, so I fell right into it," Eric said.

"There's not a better way to be involved in the community," said Melissa, who serves on several fair committees and is in charge of the baby parade.

The Herrs are in charge of purchasing all the food for the food committee to serve and for the barbecue fundraiser held in the summer.

Melissa is active in the women's ministry and in charge of nursery scheduling at the Lancaster Christian Missionary Alliance Church, which she and Eric attend.

Melissa summed up the couple's belief by saying, "Farming requires sacrifices, but at this point in our lives, we wouldn't want to change it. God has truely blessed us more than we deserve. We have nothing to complain about."

In the tobacco stripping room, three generations work side by side. In the background, Eric works with his dad Don, and brother Jason while daughter, Janae, watches.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The rush of Christmas is over and we hope to settle down to a more peaceful time.

The 14 kinds of cookies have been packed into boxes and delivered to the neighbors. I'll let the decorations up for a while longer. Even the tree may stand inside the bay window on a chest unless it drops its needles.

Sometimes, on television, they show a Christmas tree falling and everyone laughs at the mishap. Well, this year after I spent two hours putting on the lights and balls, and special handmade decorations, it crashed to the floor from the top of the chest.

I was too shocked to say a word. Unbelieveable! But, only two balls broke as almost everything flew off the tree to the floor. We bought a big tree and sawed off three feet. I guess the chest was not wide enough for the tree.

We're lucky that a snow storm hit our area early in the week instead of over the weekend when we had an open house. Our daughter flew from Texas with her husband and baby. Other children came from Virginia and New Jersey.

Now I hope to have time to finish embroidering some pillowcases. The instructions ask for different stitches than I am accustomed to making. I want it to be a relaxing job and not have to think too much.

For wedding gifts, many years ago, I received several beautiful hand-crafted pillow cases. They were almost too pretty to use—one pair I wore out and the other pair is still in its box. Which was the wisest choice?

It's a perfect and pristine world out there.

Beyond the windows of the farm house lies a lovely snowscape. The latest in the series of late fall (hey, it wasn't even officially winter yet at this writing) storms had blanketed and softened the landscape.

And gentled the brown barrenness of the season with a festive, twinkling holiday fix-up.

Beneath the frozen cover in the back yard are assorted small twigs and limbs, fallout from earlier bouts of Mother Nature's wave of weather tantrums. They mix with the scattering of limp, crumpled maple leaves littering the scruffy, green grass.

Also under the grainy, icy snow is a flattened mass of longer-than-should-be grass. The usual last mow-the lawn/chop-the-golden leaves November go-round with the riding mower was an impossibility this year. Snow and ice overtook the maples long before they had turned golden, and left us with an ugly, ragged residue of dead leaves still stubbornly clinging to their summer homes.

It's as though they never had their final, fall dress-up and refuse to leave the premises out of sheer stubbornness.

But Mother Nature, with her flair for decorating and sometimes aggravating sense of weather humor, sends a new look to magically transform what had deteriorated to ugly and unsightly.

She gently (sometimes not too gently) sprinkles several inches of snow over the ragged lawn, changing the litter to interesting little bumps that add texture to the flatness of the white expanse. Wind does the same to the blanket of snow covering the fields, as it creates patterns of higher and lower spots in contrasting shades of whiteness and shadowy blues.

A sparkling glaze, like lovely crystal, wraps around every branch, twig and exposed blade of grass or tired, dead weed stalk. Branches of pine and spruce bend under the weight of the burden of ice, changing their normal symmetrical shape to something more suggestive of a Picasso painting.

But the willows, their slender, supple limbs graceful in every season, hang heaviest under the collection of glimmering ice. Our calf population has overflowed into temporary pens between the dairy barn and the willows on the manure pit bank. After-dark feeding there, lit with a floodlight, reveals glorious "fountains" of drooping willows, their ice-coated limbs sparkling with the glitter of thousands of diamonds.

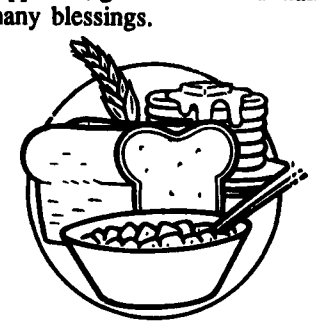
Neat rows of large, round hay bales line the field nearby. Weathered to a deep brown, these mundane packages of heifer hay each now sports a cap of pristine snow. More than anything else, lined up there in rows, they remind this dessert lover of chocolate cake rolls topped with rich whipped cream.

And, by gosh, even the manure pit has become a thing of prettiness. Its bumpy, crusted top looks for all the world like a series of miniature, snow-covered, mountain ranges. Or maybe the bumpy moguls on a ski slope. Anyone for a ski run over the manure pit mountain slopes?

Each new year, it seems, is something like waking to a coat of new-fallen snow. The old, the ugly, the muddied, the messed-up, the half-finished, the ragged, are no longer there. Instead, hanging a new calendar flings open the doors of our lives to a new landscape, a fresh, unblemished opportunity, where each step can further blaze a brave new trail where none went before.

Snow came early. But New Year, with its fresh promises and new opportunities, is right on time!

May yours be filled with peace, happiness, good health and many, many blessings.



HAPPENINGS

4-H Club Organization

The Ephrata-Cocalico Community Club will be re-organizing Monday, Jan. 8 (snow date Jan. 15) in the cafeteria of the Ephrata Middle School from 7 p.m.-8 p.m.

For more information on joining 4-H, contact either the 4-H leader Rebecca Irvine, (717) 733-0024 or Zoann Parker or Laurie Schmidt at the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601, (717) 394-6851.

4-H Vet Science

Bucks County 4-H will be offering a six-week 4-H Veterinary Science Program for any youth between 12 and 19 years of age.

The program is an excellent learning opportunity for youth who have an interest in animal science or biology.

The program is taught by a veterinarian and covers normal animal behavior, nutrition, and health. Field trips and hands-on activities are also used to help provide an exciting learning opportunity for county youth.

For more information and to register, contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension, Bucks County, at (215) 345-3283 and ask for Celeste Ball.

Youth-Animal Programs

Bucks County 4-H offers fun and exciting programming for youth between the ages of 8 and 19 (as of Jan. 1, 1996) in the following animal science areas: dairy cattle, sheep, market lamb, swine, beef, fiber or dairy goats, rabbits, guinea pigs, backyard poultry (including chickens, turkeys, pigeons, and capons), horse and pony, dogs, Seeing Eye puppies, and cats.

Youth enrolled in 4-H animal projects will develop life skills in areas including personal development, leadership, citizenship and communications. Youth will also increase their skills and knowledge related to animal science, animal care, management and the use of animals and their products, also including nutrition, genetics, reproduction and physiology by completing learn-by-doing activities in a club setting.

For more information or to register in one of the above programs, call the Bucks County Cooperative Extension office, (215) 345-3283.

4 Paws To Freedom Seeing Eye Puppy 4-H Club

The 4 Paws to Freedom Seeing Eye Puppy 4-H Club elected their new officers for 1996. President, Katie Hammell of Hampton; vice president, Kristin Castenschiold of Clinton Township; secretary, Laura Luchettio of Flemington, and treasurer, Ian Callahan of Bloomsbury. On October 18th the Paws for Patient Therapy Dog Club gave a wonderful talk and demo about therapy dogs to our club.

Favorite recipes run the gamut from casseroles to desserts. Here are favorite recipes from our readers. Enjoy!

CHOCOLATE SAUERKRAUT CAKE

3 eggs
¼ cup cocoa
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup water
2¼ cups flour
⅔ cup saurkraut (chopped fine)

Drain kraut. Cream sugar and butter. Beat together eggs and add to creamed mixture. Add vanilla. Sift dry ingredients and add to above mixture alternately with 1 cup water. Stir in kraut and bake at 350 degrees for approximately 30 minutes or more. Do not overbake.

Frosting:

½ cup butter
8-ounces cream cheese
1 box confectioners' sugar
¼ cup cocoa

Cream together butter and cream cheese. Add sugar and cocoa. Beat. Add a few drops of water if needed to make frosting of spreading consistency.

BIG BLACK WALNUT CAKE

3½ cups cake flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups shortening
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups sugar
4 egg yolks
1½ cup milk
4 egg whites, beaten
¼ cup sugar
1¼ cup black walnuts, chopped

Cream together shortening, almond flavoring, vanilla, 1½ cups sugar, and 4 egg yolks. Beat in milk alternately with dry ingredients.

Beat egg whites until frothy, add ¼ cup sugar. Beat until it forms a meringue and fold into batter. Fold in chopped walnuts.

Bake in two 9-inch layer cake pans at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until cake tests done.

TURKEY PARMIGIANA

1 lb. ground turkey
½ cup dried bread crumbs or cracker crumbs
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1½ cup pizza sauce
5 slices mozzarella cheese
¼ cup grated parmesan

Gently shape turkey into 5 patties. Coat with bread crumbs, topping off any excess. In a large skillet, heat oil over medium heat. Add patties and brown lightly on each side. Transfer patties to oblong baking dish. Pour sauce over patties. Cover with mozarella cheese. Sprinkle parmesan cheese on top. Bake in upper third of 400° oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Delicious way to serve ground turkey!

QUICK LAMB STROGANOFF

12 ounces lamb sirloin, cut into thin strips
1 large onion, cut into wedges
2 teaspoons olive oil or cooking oil
1 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
12-ounces stroganoff gravy
⅓ cup light sour cream
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
6 to 8 ounces dry noodlles.

In a 10-inch skillet, cook onion in hot oil over medium-high heat until crisp tender. Remove onion from skillet. Add lamb; cook and stir over medium-high heat for 3 to 5 minutes or until no pink remains. Return onion to skillet with meat. Stir in thyme. Combine stroganoff sauce, sour cream, and vinegar; stir into skillet. Bring to boil; reduce heat and cook 1 minute to heat through. Serve over hot cooked noodles.

Offer guests a warming cup of hot buttered cider during your New Year's gathering. The cider may be made several hours in advance. After simmering, cool slightly and refrigerate. To serve, reheat over medium heat, stirring frequently.

HOT BUTTERED CIDER

¼ cup unsalted butter
½ cup packed dark brown sugar
½ gallong apple cider or apple juice
3 oranges, sliced crosswise into 14 slices (seeds removed), divided
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
2 cinnamon sticks, 2 to 3 inches long
Cinnamon sticks for garnish
Butter pats

In large saucepan over medium heat, melt butter. Add brown sugar, stir 2 to 3 minutes. Add cider; continue stirring until sugar is dissolved. Add 4 orange slices, cloves, and cinnamon sticks, stir. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Ladle warm cider into cups or mugs garnished with remaining orange slices, cinnamon sticks, and butter pats.

Yields: 10 servings.

Attracting Visitors Into The Backyard and Home

With snow on the ground, birds are ever present in the garden feeding on the serviceberry, dogwood adn grapes.

Provide a source of year-round cover for wildlife and birds. Choose from plants that attract wildlife like blackberry, oak, beech, maple, birch, hickory, aspen, hawthorn or blueberry.

Evergreen trees and shrubs are often in short supply in the backyard. If your yard has too few evergreens, you may wish to plant native conifers (e.g., white pine or hemlock) or selectively remove other trees that are shading the evergreens. Evergreens like hemlock, pine species and columnar arborvitae attract black-capped chickadees, gray or red squirrels, morning doves and nuthatches.

Maintain or create cavity trees in a woodlot or yard. Cavities near streams and forest opening help the most. Fallen logs of various sizes, stumps and cut tree tops provide cover for wildlife. Large trees with large cavity holes are particularly valuable. If your property contains few cavity trees, you may maintain trees that have the potential to become cavity trees. Here's an easy way to improve the cover on your property.

Brush piles may be constructed using one of three types of bases. The first type consists of four large logs placed one foot apart and parallel to each other; with four more logs of the same size stacked perpendicular to the first logs. The second type of base is made by placing large stones in three piles that form a triangle. The third type of base is constructed of logs and stones by placing four large logs about one foot apart and parallel to each other, then placing large, flat rocks across the tops of the logs. After you have built the base of the brush pile, add brush to the top starting with the larger limbs first, then adding smaller pieces until the pile is about six feet high and six feet wide.

As the weather gets colder, a cheery holiday fire welcomes family and friends indoor. A few extra friends and foe may arrive when bringing firewood into the house.

A pile of firewood is an ideal place for insects and spiders to hibernate through the winter. Always wear gloves when reaching into a wood pile. Spiders enjoy a wood pile for overwintering.

Other insects living in wood piles include: Roundheaded Borers, Flathead Borers, Bark Beetles, Ambrosia Beetles, Powderpost Beetles, Carpenter Ants and Termintes, Horntail Wasps, Carpenter Bees, Darkling Beetles, and Pennsylvania Wood Roaches.

Store firewood outdoors in an open area, as far away from the house as practical, to keep away insects, dirt and debris. stack firewood off the ground to eliminate wood rot and pest problems.

Never stack wood against the house. Cover the wood pile with dark polyurethane plastic or sheet metal roofing to keep the wood dry. When severe cold weather arrives, pieces of firewood can be moved nearer to the house for easy access. Firewood should be stored on a rack, patio or deck instead of on the ground.

Bring only enough firewood into the house to be burned immediately. Firewood stored inside the home over an hour or so may warm up enough for the insects to emerge from within or under the bank and start their spring activities early. Do not store firewood in a heated garage or basement for the same reason.

For more information on attracting wildlife, contact your Cooperation Extension office for Forest Stewardship #5, Wildlife.

RUTGERS (Hunterdon County) — The New Jersey 4-H Science & Technology Committee has developed a series of self-contained "4-H Science Discovery Kits," according to Terese Buchanan, Hunterdon County 4-H Agent. These will help youth program staff and volunteers, as well as classroom and after-school teachers, to provide science lessons to youth using a fun, learn-by-doing approach. Each kit contains a lesson plan and nearly all of the teaching materials needed to teach the lesson in a hands-on way. The kits can be borrowed, for $3 and a $20 deposit refundable when the kit is returned. The kits are aimed at teaching youth in group settings such as 4-H clubs and other meetings, and school classrooms. These lessons were developed by faculty and staff of Rutgers Cooperative Extension. Topics include the following:

- Geology Where you live (Rocks & Minerals - best for grades 3-7)
- Don't Trash the Planet! (Recycling/Sold Waste - best for grades 3-6)
- Tree-Mendous Fun (Trees - best for grades 2-3)
- As Big As A Whale! (Whales - best for grades 4-8)

A youth leader or teacher can sign out one kit at a time, for a period of one week. A simple, one-page evaluation/report form needs to be completed when the kit is returned.

Conodoguinet 4-H Sheep

The Conodoguinet 4-H Sheep Club will be re-organizing on January 17, 1996, 7:30 P.M. at the Cumberland County Extension Office.

This club is for 4-H members primarily interested in breeding sheep and market lamb projects.

4-H is the youth program of Penn State Cooperative Extension. This and all 4-H programs are available to all youth between the ages 8-19 regardless of race, color, national origin, sex or handicap.

For more information on joining 4-H, contact Laura Watts at the Cumberland County Extension Office, 1100 Claremont Road, Carlisle, PA 17013 - Phone 240-6500, 697-0371 Ext. 6500, or 532-7286 Ext. 6500.

ANSWER — Betty Farrell, Lindley, N.Y., wanted directions for making rice crispy treats made with Karo syrup instead of marshmallows. Thanks to Mrs. L. Eugene Martin, Denver, for sending the recipe.

Crispy Rice and Peanut Butter Squares

½ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup packed brown sugar
½ cup crunchy peanut butter
2½ cups crispy rice cereal
Butter 8x8x2-inch pan

In medium-sized saucepan, combine corn syrup and both sugars. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until mixture just comes to a boil. Remove from heat. Stir in peanut butter until thoroughly blended. Add crispy rice cereal. Stir until evenly coated. Press mixture into pan with fingers moistened with water. Cool. Cut into 1½ -inch squares. Store in tightly-covered container. Makes 24 squares.

ANSWER — Donna Beyerbach of Oakdale wanted a recipe for goat milk fudge. Thanks to Debra Shull, Landisburg, who sent a recipe for it.

Chocolate Goat Milk Fudge

2 1-ounce squares unsweetened chocolate
¾ cup fresh goat milk
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon light corn syrup
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate in milk. Add sugar and corn syrup; cook slowly, stirring constantly until sugar dissolves. Cook gently to softball stage (234 degrees), stirring frequently. Remove from heat; add butter and cool at room temperature until lukewarm (110 degrees) without stirring. Add vanilla; beat vigorously until fudge becomes very thick and loses its gloss. Quickly spread in buttered pan. When firm, cut into squares. Makes about 2 dozen pieces.

ANSWER — Renee Fitzpatrick, Annville, wants a recipe for Chicken Stoltzfus. Thanks to Mrs. L. Eugene Martin, Denver, for sending a recipe.

Chicken Stoltzfus

5 pound roasting chicken, cut into 8 pieces
4 quarts water
1 tablespoon salt and pepper
¾ cup butter
¾ cup flour
2 cups light cream
¼ cup finely chopped parsley

Pastry Squares:

⅔ cup shortening
⅓ cup butter
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup ice water (approximately)

Cook chicken until tender; reserve 6 cups stock. Cool, remove skin and bones, cut into bite-sized pieces. Melt butter; mix in flour. Cook until golden and bubbling. Stir in 6 cups reserved stock and light cream; stir constantly. Cook over high heat until sauce boils. Simmer until thick; add chicken and parsley.

Squares: Cut shortening and butter into flour and salt with pastry blender or mix with fingers until it forms crumbs. Sprinkle ice water over crumbs; use only enough water to hold crumbs together. Divide dough in 2 parts. Roll out ⅛ -inch thick; cut dough into 1-inch pieces. Place on ungreased cookie sheet; bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes, until lightly browned. Arrange pastry squares on platter and spoon the chicken mixture over them.

ITALIAN PASTA SALAD

3 pounds rotini pasta, cooked
1 cup celery, chopped
1 cup green onions, sliced
½ cup red peppers
½ cup green peppers
½ cup yellow peppers
¾ cup grated carrots
⅔ cup green olives, sliced
½ cup black olives, sliced
2 cups tomatoes, seeded and chopped
1 pound mozzarella cheese, cubed
1 pound provolone cheese, cubed
1 pound cooked salami, cubed
1 pound cooked ham, cubed
½ pound pepperoni, sliced thin and quartered
32 oz. Italian seasoning
6 drops tabasco sauce

Combine all ingredients in large container. Cover and refrigerate overnight, best if refrigerated 24 hours before serving. Before serving, stir thoroughly. Serves 50.

TURKEY LOAF

2 medium Granny Smith apples, peeled, cored, and chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
⅓ cup chicken broth
½ cup fresh bread crumbs
¼ cup evaporated milk
1 egg
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1¼ lb. ground turkey

Preheat oven to 350°. In a large non-stick skillet, combine apples, onion and broth. Bring to a simmer over medium heat. Cover and cook for 5 minutes. Remove cover and cook until liquid evaporates, about 2 minutes. Transfer to a bowl. Add bread crumbs, milk, egg, poultry seasoning, salt and pepper to apple mixture in bowl; stir until blended. Add ground turkey and mix well. Using wet hands, form into a 7x4" freeform loaf on a lightly greased baking sheet. Bake until a meat thermometer inserted in center of loaf reads 160°, about 1 hour. Let stand 5 minutes before slicing.

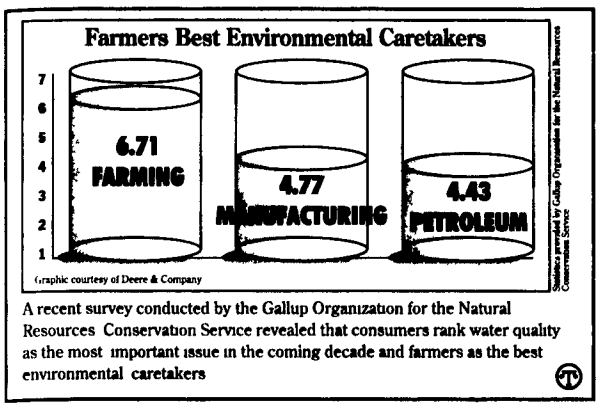
Consumers Give Water Quality And Farmers Top Rating



A recent survey conducted by the Gallup Organization for the Natural Resources Conservation Service revealed that consumers rank water quality as the most important issue in the coming decade and farmers as the best environmental caretakers

(NAPS)—Water quality is the leading natural resource issue of the coming decade, according to a recent opinion survey conducted by the Gallup Organization for the Natural Resources Conservation Service. The survey indicated 23 percent of respondents ranked water quality first in importance when compared to other natural resource issues.

The Gallup study further revealed that individual farmers and agriculture as a whole ranked in first place as environmental caretakers. On a scale of one to ten, farmers received the best rating at 6.71 compared to manufacturing at 4.77 and the petroleum industry at 4.43.

There is good reason for this high ranking. Farmers depend on a sustainable environment with clean water and productive soil. They have adopted management practices that protect water quality by reducing soil erosion and chemical use and by containing livestock waste.

Many farmers control erosion by using new tillage practices. New practices leave crop residue on the soil surface to protect the soil from the impact of rain or wind. Farmers also plant filter strips of grass and trees at the edges of streams and lakes to further protect water quality.

Farmers have decreased average application rates of fertilizers and pesticides during the past 15 years. Many farmers inject nutrients beneath the soil surface to reduce runoff.

Some farmers are using satellite and computer technology to help them vary the amounts of nutrients applied to a field according to the exact needs of the crop. This process, called precision farming, will also help contribute to a cleaner water supply.

By farming wisely, farmers earn their title as premier environmental caretakers.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Thanks to Mary Ann Zimmerman, Akron, who sent this recipe in answer to the canned bell pepper request.

Bell Peppers

Place sliced peppers in pint size jars. Put ½ teaspoon vegetable oil and ½ teaspoon salt in jars on top of peppers.

Bring the following ingredients to a boil and then pour into jars over peppers.

2 cups vinegar
3 cups sugar
3 cups water

Next put pre-boiled lids on jars and tighten with rings. Cold pack for 5 minutes.

ANSWER — Thanks to Mary Bowles, Red Lion, who sent this recipe for the reader whose family likes sour and pickled food. Recipe may be reduced if preferred.

Pepper Relish

12 red peppers
12 green peppers
12 yellow peppers
15 onions
2 stalks celery
2 tablespoons celery seed

Grind fine and cover with boiling water. Add 6 tablespoons salt. Soak 10 minutes, then drain. Add:

1 quart vinegar
7 cups sugar

Boil 20 minutes and can.

Siblings Take Sheep, Steers, Pigs To State Farm Show

Showing Is Family Affair For Donoughs

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Hundreds of kids are showing livestock at the Pennsylvania Farm Show from Jan. 6-11. While the youth shows are considered a time for kids to show off their projects, don't let that fool you.

"Showing is not a kid's project but a family project. Kids can't do it on their own," said 15-year-old Travis Donough.

He credits his parents, Ed and LaRue, themselves former Farm Show youth exhibitors, for being supportive and motivating in helping him, his 12-year-old brother Ryan, and his 8-year-old sister Joelynn, with achieving great success in the show ring.

The Donoughs will haul 5 sheep, 2 pigs, and two steers to compete in swine, sheep, and steer classes at the Farm Show.

The Donough siblings compete in seven different shows throughout the year. Farm Show competition, they say, is the toughest and getting tougher.

"Kids are spending more money to purchase better animals," Ed said.

But purchasing animals doesn't always mean its a better one than a homebred one.

"I don't care how much money you spend to buy an animal. If you don't take care of it, it won't do you any good," Ed said.

This year the Donoughs purchased two steers from Iowa.

"We are not at all pleased with them," Travis said.

"Crazy" and "jumpy" are the words the Donoughs use to describe the steers. "They just aren't personable."

Despite the Donoughs persistence in leading the steers around the pasture, they still leave a lot to be desired although they are better behaved then before. The Donoughs think the nervous trait is genetic and no amount of working with the animals will change it.

Travis and Ryan consider it easier to show pigs.

The recent snow storms pose another problem in preparing the animals for showing. It is impossible to lead the animals on the hilly slopes around the barn because of the ice.

Nevertheless, the Donoughs spend a lot of time in the small barn where the sheep, steers, and pigs are housed.

Sheep are the Donoughs' forte. They have been raising Hampshires, Suffolks, and Crossbreds for years and have won numerous trophies and ribbons in county competition. Each year they choose sheep from their homebred flock to take to Farm Show competition.

They purchase pigs from different breeders. This year, they purchased Hamp-crosses from Maryland to raise for competition.

Although the brothers believe it is easier to show pigs, they enjoy the challenge of showing sheep. And, Travis does especially well in showmanship competitions.

Things at the Farm Show aren't exactly calm in-between competitions for the Donoughs.

"Usually, you have at least one sheep that isn't satisfied with its own pen. It'll jump into another pen or take off to explore the world," Ryan said.

One time, Ryan's soda was accidently bumped off the show box, ant the sheep rapidly lapped up the spilled drink. Now Ryan occasionally gives his sheep a few swallows — just because they love it so much.

The siblings will miss three to four days of school to compete at the Farm Show. This is no problem because all three are A and B students and have no difficulty making up the missed assignments. Travis is in 10th grade and an FFA student at Manheim Central High School. Ryan is in sixth grade at H.C. Burgard Elementary School, and Joelynn is in second grade at Sporting Hill Elementary. She is showing a sheep in the open class at the Farm Show this year. Next year she looks forward to competing in the youth classes.

Showing is a family affair for Ed and children Joelynn, Travis, and Ryan. Although she is not pictured, LaRue wholeheartedly helps with the kids' projects. The parents know first-hand the importance of parents helping their children achieve success since both of them were previous youth exhibitors at the Farm Show. In fact, Ed, who was from Manheim, and LaRue, who was from Nazareth, met each other at the Farm Show, and from that introduction, love blossomed.

Unlike some exhibitors, the Donoughs return home every night. Travis said that he already has problems with allergies and asthma so the Farm Show dust aggravates his problems.

At the Farm Show, the Donoughs believe the top trophies are rather evasive because of the stiff competition.

"We're just hoping to make the sale," Travis said.

For their projects to be eligible

Ryan and Travis pamper their homebred sheep, which have garnered many trophies in local fairs. The Donoughs will take Cupid, Thunder, Amanda, Dakota, and Oscar to Farm Show competition.

Nutrition is Number One Pre-Game Strategy

NEWARK, DEL. — One young athlete indulges in a big steak dinner the night before the big game. A fellow competitor dines on spaghetti and a generous wedge of Italian bread.

Who picked the better pre-game meal?

The student who loaded up on carbohydrate-rich pasta and bread made the right choice, according to University of Delaware Cooperative Extension home economics educator Mary Wilcoxon. Many people thing that food high in protein — such as steak — helps an athlete sustain energy during competition. But studies have shown that carbohydrates are the best fuel for endurance because they are stored as glycogen in the body. Glycogen serves as the primary source during high-intensity exercise, explains Wilcoxon.

"Student athletes tend to pick up nutrition myths from their peers," notes Wilcoxon. "For example, another common mixconception is that muscle cramps are caused by inadequate salt intake. Thus, you sometimes see young athletes taking salt tablets."

Cramps are actually due to severe loss of water through sweating, says Wilcoxon. Drinking adequate amounts of water before, during and after exercise can prevent this water loss. Salt tablets are unnecessary, says Wilcoxon, and can even aggravate cramps by drawing more water out of the muscles and into the stomach. Normal salt intake during eating should replace the small amount of salt lost through sweating.

Other sports nutrition myths identified by Wilcoxon include:

• Dring water during exercise causes an upset stomach and slows you down. There is no evidence that water taken during exercise causes an upset stomach or any other problem. In fact, consumption of water is very important because it helps replace body fluids lost as sweat. Drink 1 to 1½ cups water 15 minutes before exercise and ½ cup every 10 to 15 minutes during competition or practice.

• Eating a candy bar, honey or soft drink before exercising will provide a source of quick energy. Although sugar from these items will enter the body quickly, it can cause fatigue, hunger and dizziness. Large amounts of insulin are released to clear the blood of excess glucose, which causes a rapid drop in blood sugar. Better pre-game snack choices, eaten an hour or more before exercise, include bagels, crackers, eaten an hour or more before exercise, include bagels, crackers or half of a sandwich.

• Increased physical activity increases the need for vitamin and mineral supplements. Vitamin and mineral supplements are no substitute for the well-balanced diet. Excessive amounts of vitamin supplements over a prolonged period have proven harmful. It is true that potassium losses through perspiration and urine may be sufficient to decrease muscle performance and add to heat stress. Good sources of potassium are oranges, bananas, grapefruit and baked potatoes.

• Vitamins will give you more energy. No vitamin supplies energy. Although some vitamines are needed to produce energy from the foods you eat, these vitamins are easily supplied by an athlete's normal diet. Megadoses of vitamins won't give you more energy or improve your performance.

Marie Kieffer sits at the desk she occupied for 34 years at the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service in Somerset County.

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.)—Marie Kieffer decluttered her desk at the Somerset County Cooperative Extension office for the last time.

"I worked at the same desk for 34 years, that's the reason I retired," said the 1961 Penn State graduate, whose new home will be her old home—near Hershey where she grew up.

For weeks she's been transporting accumulated books and fabrics, from one house to the other. "My mother has asked me three times, 'Is that all the fabric?'"

Kieffer began her long extension career one week after college graduation. She was the assistant extension home economist.

Later, she winged it alone some 15 months, until a replacement for the previous home economist was hired.

Homemaker groups were popular at the time and Kieffer taught clothing construction and personal development. As women gravitated to the work force these groups dwindled with the members shifting their personal priorities.

She'll tell you firmly there's nothing routine about working in extension. Yet, being a helpful resource is a necessity.

"One of the on-going responsibilities of an extension agent is to answer personal assistance calls. Sometimes folks drop into the office, call by phone or write a post card about a problem they have," Kieffer said.

Food preservation questions are always popping up, for instance, about blanching green beans or canning venison. Or unfailingly, "What do I do with all this zucchini?" Kieffer admits the club-like veggie was more prolific than were her ideas for its use.

She's assisted the desperate in removing clothing stains (discovered after the wash cycles had set them in, usually from filled snuff boxes and crayons left in the pockets).

Then there were the not-so-routine dilemmas. Like the live turtle a woman wanted to kill and remove from its shell. Did Kieffer know how it should be done, which parts of the reptile were edible and how to cook them?

Marie Kieffer has retired from the Somerset County Cooperative Extension Service after a 34 year-career there. With her is Bob Brown who succeeds her as director.

"I didn't even try to get an answer," Kieffer recalls, "I suggested that she call the Pennsylvania Game Commission."

And there was the donkey that needed a diaper to appear in an indoor Christmas pageant. The organizers were not going to bait disaster inside their church.

This provided scope for imagination, even prospects for a reasonable solution—after the beast's gender was established. Later, Kieffer heard glowing reports about the donkey's success and popularity with the audience.

"One of the things about this county extension, it is very active in radio. Radio is great for public relations, contact with the general public and with farmers," she said.

For three and almost a half decades, her twice-weekly broadcasts each lasted about 15 minutes.

Another medium for public contact was television. Kieffer first faced the camera two weeks into her job and realized additional training would increase her comfort level. She returned to school for a radio and TV course.

Somerset County 4-H, however, was the biggest time consumer of her career. Since her first trip in 1962, Kieffer has accompanied hundreds of 4-H kids on 16 trips through the Interstate 4-H Exchange Program.

Pueblo County, Colorado was Kieffer's first. Having never been further west than Pittsburgh, it was exciting.

She recalls how the railroad agent authorized an unscheduled stop at Rockwood's previously closed station so the 35 4-Hers and five adult chaperones, en route to Chicago, could hop aboard.

North Dakota came next. "You don't know what 'waving fields of grain' are until you see North Dakota," she says reflectively.

In 1966, Colorado was again the destination, namely the Tri-River area. Unlike the previous two excursions, the return trip had its trials and tribulations.

Plans for the day were to ride rail as far as Denver, go west by bus over the awesome mountains, and fly back again, to Denver. But to everyone's dismay, the national airlines went on strike that very morning. Transportation everywhere was in chaos. Cause and effect syndrome kicked in just as the 4-Hers were starting toward home.

The host extension agent, by dividing his guests into two groups, managed to arrange their return to Denver on small local flights. In Denver they were reunited.

Trains were running four hours late, but finally, they boarded one bound for Chicago, only to have it stop for an emergency. A passenger had had a heart attack.

NEW HOLLAND SPREADERS 12-YEAR PROTECTION PLAN

Most guarantees last only as long as the original owner. But New Holland Bonded Protection means our entire line of box spreaders is guaranteed not just to the first owner, but to all future owners.

Bonded Protection covers every box spreader's floor and sides for twelve years. If a floorboard fails for any reason during normal use, or the sides rust through, we'll replace them free.

Choose from seven models, with 161- to 440-cubic-foot (heaped, double-beater) capacities.

NEW HOLLAND DOES IT ALL

New Holland side-delivery spreaders let you spread slurry, semi-solid and gutter manure from barn cleaners with ease...even poultry litter.

The hydraulic expeller door and the three-segment expeller let you spread a wide, even pattern. The handy bottom cleanout door drains the tank quickly and completely.

Choose from three models, all with tanks protected by a 12-year rust-through warranty...the best in the industry.

See our lineup today.

You ask

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details.

QUESTION — John Kreider, New Holland, writes that he collects milk bottles from dairies in Pennsylvania. He has one from Sunnyside Farm, Flicksville. Does anybody know where this dairy is located or where it was because he cannot pinpoint it on current Pennsylvania maps. John would also like to know where A.T. Shiedy Dairy and John Kraybill Dairy are located.

QUESTION — Marilyn Dunker, Spring Valley, ILL., would like to find cross stitch pattern for Allis-Chalmers Model WD tractor.

QUESTION — Laura Jennings, Columbia, N.J., writes that she has a blue-eyed (sky blue) rabbit. Is this common?

QUESTION — Elva Mathiot, would like to know where to purchase a unde washer, made by Stanley Home Products, Inc. It is used to wash lingerie and stockings.

QUESTION — Lebanon Countian Harold Kreider, Box 1890, #1, Jonestown, PA (717) 865-7447. Has a Kohler air boat engine, single cyl.-two cycl. model #K295-1st.-295 CC. He needs an owner's manual or to talk to someone familiar with this engine. Please contact him directly.

QUESTION — Esther Nolt, Newmanstown, would like to know where she can buy a set of Jungle Doctor books written by Paul White. She enjoyed these books as a child and would like to get them for her children.

QUESTION — Dale Leighow, R.R.3, Box 368, Catawissa, would like to locate some seed from a corn called 8-row yellow or possibly Flint corn. It is a small diameter cob about 8-10-inches long. Also the cob is white and every ear has eight rows of kernals. The kernel is about the size of an average person's fingernail on the ring finger and is dark yellow in color. It was used many years ago to grind into cornmeal. Dale would like 20 to 25 kernels to plant in 1996.

QUESTION — A Turbotville reader would like to know where to find literature or an owner's manual on a US Slicing Machine Co., Van Berkel's original hand crank meat slicer that was made in 1912 in La Porte, Ind.

QUESTION — Daniel Esh, Gordonville, would like to know where to purchase a small battery-operated music box that imitates a canary singing.

QUESTION — Glenda Strouse, Northumberland, would like to know the title and author of an excerpt from the following poem. The complete poem appeared in the 12/9 issue, but we need to condense for space. It's her grandmother's favorite poem and she could recite every word until a stroke took her voice. She is 89 and in a nursing home, but Glenda reads this poem to her every Christmas. Glenda said that there may be parts missing or wrong since she wrote it from memory.

The yule log blazed in the ancient hold.
The begger shrank from the biting cold.
The baron's only daughter, the little Lady Grace was better dressed than any guest and fairer in the face.
Yet never a thought of pride had she as she gaily danced round the Christmas tree. . . .

QUESTION — Carrie Leiphart, Port Trevorton, would like to know where to buy by-products for cattle such as pasta and bread.

ANSWER — Mrs. Clyde Barrick, 2660 Walnut Bottom Rd., Carlisle, Pa. 17013, wanted the words to the "The Night the Animals Talked." Thanks to Theresa Haas, Pitman, who sent the Animal's Yuletide Tale by Dianne Benson McCorry. Since it is too long to print in this paper, it is being sent directly to Mrs. Barricks.

ANSWER — In answer to Kathryn Heberling, Falls Creek, who had some questions about teaberry flavoring, Mary Lou Weisser, Lansdale, sent information she has compiled over the years. Mary Lou writes that she is addicted to the teaberry flavor and through the years has gathered the following information: Teaberry is a methyl-saliciate wintergreen flavoring. It is available in an extract made by John Wagner and Sons, Jacksonville Rd., Ivyland, PA 18974 or call (215) 674-5000. This is pure wintergreen oil and 90 percent alcohol. It is not sweet.

Another, stronger extract can be purchased from Byron H. Smith Co., Bangor, Maine 04401. This is a pure extract of checkerberry, which is oil of sweet birch, methyl-salicylate and 67 percent alcohol.

She also has a syrup, which is sweet of checkerberry from a place in Conn. Years ago, it was made by Doudens on the Green, 87 Whitefield St., Guilford, Conn. Phone (no area code given) 453-2133 R. Dudley, Reg. Pharm.

Years ago, Mary Lou was able to get ice cream teaberry flavor from the Weiss Markets chain Carnival brand.

She also purchases chocolate covered patties from a candy place in New Hampshire. Kellerhaus U.S. Rt. 3 P.O. Box 5337, Weirs Beach, N.H. 03247. She orders it by phone and uses a charge card. (603) 366-4466.

ANSWER — A subscriber wanted to know where to locate a 1965, 1966, or 1967 gas tank (new, old stock) for a 1965 Cadillac. Thanks to Edwin Lucke, who writes that he has one. Call him at (717) 235-8166 after 5:30 p.m. any day except Monday or Tuesday. Or, write to R.R.2, Box 2883, Glenville, PA 17329.

for the Farm Show sale, the animals must place in the top 55 percent of the class.

As with the other competitors, winning the top trophies are not everything. It's fun to meet other exhibitors from across the state and compare notes. Some friendships result in lasting relationships. The Donoughs ought to know. Their parents met in Farm Show competition as teen-agers and their friendship blossomed into a lifelong commitment of marriage.

The Donoughs are grateful for the support of businesses that purchase the sale animals.

Travis has his sights set on attending Penn State to study animal science or ag engineering.

In addition to 4-H, both boys are Boy Scouts. Ryan is fascinated with computer art class. But it's their 4-H projects that take the most time and commitment.

"It's lots of fun. We can learn a lot about managing time and money. And, it teaches us responsibility," Ryan said.

Pa. Farm Show Bus Trip

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office will be sponsoring a bus trip to the Pa. Farm Show on Tuesday, January 9.

The bus will leave the Wayne County Courthouse at 7 a.m. and stop in Hamlin at the McDonald's Restaurant en route to Harrisburg. The bus will leave the Farm Show complex at 4:30 p.m. and return to Honesdale at approximately 7:30 p.m.

$15 will reserve your seat on the Farm Show bus. Stop in at the Wayne County Extension Office located at the Wayne County Courthouse between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to pay for your seat. Reservations will not be accepted without payment.

thus gone awry, unexpectedly, the gang was delayed seven hours. They went late-night sightseeing in the Windy City. Hours later they learned that while they were casually strolling its darkened streets, one of Chicago's most infamous murder cases was happening.

Two years after, in Utah, the situation was different when their hosts were Mormons. They gained a knowledge about that religion, visited Salt Lake City, saw and heard the Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

Through the Interstate 4-H Exchange program Kieffer said participants learned how to travel, how to understand different cultures and how to adapt into a family whose circumstances and routines were different from their own. Most shocking to the kids was what they learned about themselves, she said.

"We always said we started with boys and girls but came home with young men and women," Kieffer said, adding that they had a deeper sense of appreciation for their home and family, and the standards they were raised with.

To date, the trips have included Montana, California, Utah, Oregon, Texas, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Colorado, North Dakota, Arizona and Idaho. They returned twice to three of the states—California, Utah, and Colorado. All but Michigan have been west of the Great Mississippi River.

From these, Kieffer says seeing the Grand Canyon's awesome grandeur from the back of a mule ranks among her most memorable 4-H experiences. It was worth every minute of scorching July sun, and resulting stiff muscles she got during the day-long trek to the bottom and back up.

Another pleasure was riding a massive wheat harvestor in Kansas. She recalls that it took an hour to go around one field.

Kieffer says kids are interviewed for the program before they know the destination. "We want them to apply for the experience, not the destination," she said. They have to decide if they can handle traveling 2,000 miles from home to live in an unfamiliar environment with a family they've just met.

Because of her 4-H exchange experience, one girl chose to enter the Peace Corps and go to Africa. Another attended college in her host state. Still others maintained contact through weddings, vacations or passing through Somerset via the turnpike, Kieffer said, especially truck-driving parents.

There was much more to 4-H for Kieffer. Food revues, fashion revues, farm show preparations, Make-It-Yourself With Wool contests, and numerous other responsibilities that involved extension staff and 4-H parents.

"Extension started in 1915 and has been very influential in farm families and rural communities. I think it's pretty awesome to have been a part of it for 34 years," says Kieffer, with obvious respect.

"When history looks back on extension, I hope it does so favorably," she added.

So what's next for Marie Kieffer? "I refuse to commit myself," she states, holding out on her options—sewing, cooking (she's garnered an extensive collection of cookbooks over the years)—and traveling.

"I may travel a bit—without 40 kids following me," she laughs.

But for now, she doesn't care that "It's taking me longer to move than I thought it would," because her goodbyes are coming gently, not abruptly, to friends and former colleagues. Folks like Bob Antram and his wife, Roberta; Bob Brown, the extension agent who succeeds to the post of director Kieffer held when she retired; office staff Kathy Dwyer and Linda Johnson; and Melissa Hipple, the newest agent on board at Somerset.

There once was a son that went "Pennsylvania Turnpike I'm stuck on you..." sung by a country artist who was alluding to the normally vicious snowfalls in Somerset.

It's a ditty Kieffer may well adopt, only in another context. She has found the roadway the most direct route between her two homes and she's been cruisin' it two, three times a week, between snowstorms, to get herself relocated.

You know, it may not happen 'til spring, but then, what's the hurry?

ANSWER — To the Mt. Joy reader who wanted to know the zip code for Waterbury, Conn. It is 06701. Zip code numbers are available by calling the U.S. Post Office in your area and asking for the zip code. For your local post office number, look in the phone directory under U.S. Post Office.

ANSWER — For the reader who asked, Nolt Spreading sells finely ground natural phosphate rock in bags and in bulk. Nolts are located at 155 E. Wood Corner Rd., Lititz, Pa. 17543. Also Bio Farm Service delivers the phosphate rock state wide. Contact them at 216 Pleasant Valley Rd., East Earl, PA 17519-9301 or call (717) 445-4794.

Bucks 4-H Achievement Night

Dae Gawronski, Springtown, Springtown 4-H Club and April Geake, Hellertown, Spurs N' Burrs Horse and Pony Club received the national "I Dare You Leadership Award" at the recent Bucks County 4-H Achievement Night program. The award recognized personal integrity, balanced living, and leadership at the club level.

The I Dare You Leadership Award is presented each year by the American Youth Foundation (AYF) in cooperation with principals, headmaster and 4-H county agents across the nation. The award was first offered in 1941 by the late William H. Danforth, founder of the Ralston Purina Company in St. Louis, who challeneged young people to achieve their highest potential and to influence others through lives of service.

The award takes its name from the book, I Dare You!, written by Danforth, in which he commends the balanced life of mental, physical, social and spiritual development as the backbone of leadership. In addition to a certificate of recognition each recipient received a copy of Danforth's inspirational book, I Dare You!, and a scholarship opportunity to attend AYF's International Leadership Conference at Miniwanca in Michigan, Merrowvista in New Hampshire or Cedar Lake in California. More than 7,000 high schools and 4-H programs participate in the I Dare You Leadership Award program each year.

Edith and Bill Campbell, Coach Road, Langhorne, received the 1995 Friends of 4-H Award at the Bucks County 4-H Achievement Night.

Both Campbells are active volunteers with the Middletown Grange, which includes 4-H livestock, project judging, and 4-H displays in the annual Middletown Grange Fair.

Pat Freiler, 4-H agent from Penn State Cooperative Extension, Bucks County, presented the award.

"4-H couldn't have better friends than Edith and Bill Campbell," she said. She challenged the audience to imagine how much work is required to carry out the Grange fair. Both Campbells spend many volunteer hours arranging the behind the scenes details for the annual three day event.

Bucks County 4-H recognized eight outstanding 4-H members with the Junior Cloverleaf Award for enthusiasm, club involvement, responsibility and leadership within their club.

In the 12-13 year old group, the winners are Erin Buckman, 4-H Dairy Club, daughter of Warren and Lisa Buckman, 489 Center School Road, Perkasie; Dirk Hamilton, 4-H Goat Club, son of Hutch and Linda Hamilton, 1247 Wrightsotwn Road, Newtown; Chara Histand, Hilltown 4-H Club, daughter of Timothy and Kathy Histand, 117 Holiday House Road, Sellersville; and Julia Krout, Hilltown 4-H Club, daughter of Rebecca Krout, 615 Arch Street, Perkasie.

In the 8-11 year old group, the winners are Dan Connelly, Buckingham 4-H Club, son of Thomas and Geri Connelly, 3193 Pelham Place, Doylestown; Ryan O'Banion, 4-H Goat Club, son of Ralph and Jan O'Banion, 5935 Pidcock Creek Road, New Hope; Daniel Smith, Buckingham 4-H Club, son of Richard and Vicky Smith, 5388 Ridge Road, New Hope; and Rebekah Wenhold, Spurs N' Burrs Horse and Pony Club, daughter of Linda and Craig Wenhold, 2175 Deer Trail Road, Coopersburg.

Chris Connelly, Doylestown, and Jenny Ruth, Pineville, received the Bucks County 4-H County Clover award at the county 4-H Achievement Night.

The award recognizes outstanding leadership, 4-H achievement, and community service. Both are juniors at Central Bucks East High School.

Connelly, son of Thomas and Geri Connelly, 3193 Pelham Place, Doylestown, is currently serving as 4-H Ambassador, speaking to school and community groups about the 4-H program. A member of the Buckingham 4-H Club, he has participated in statewide 4-H conferences. He has learned about the dairy and veterinary science thorugh 4-H and has a career goal to become a veterinarian.

Jenny Ruth, president of the Wrightstown 4-H Club, is the daughter of Timothy and Sharon Ruth, Pineville. Her 4-H activities have focused on market lamb and sheep breeding. She served as county 4-H Ambassador last year and has also participated in statewide 4-H conferences.

Each award recognized accuracy, neatness, and quality of the records.

4-H Club Treasurer's first place award winner is Michelle Naudascher, Milford Square, Milford 4-H Club and second place, Lori Ferguson, Quakertown, Spurs N Burrs Horse and Pony Club.

First place 4-H Club Secretary award winner is Kelly Pike, Quarkertown, Milford 4-H Club. Second place winner is Chara Histand, Sellersville, Hilltown 4-H Club. Third place winner is Jillian Parry, Newtown, Seeing Eye Puppy 4-H Club.

Club reporters are required to complete a scrapbook of club activities during the year. First place winner is Kathy Walchonski, New Hope, Bucks County Goat Club. Second place winner is Kendal Dimmick, Quakertown, Spurs N Burrs Horse and Pony Club. Third place winner is Chrissy Lawrence, Blooming Glen, Hilltown 4-H Club.

4-H State Winners Attend Youth Congress In Memphis

Learning, fun and friendly competition awaited the nine Delaware 4-H state winners who attended the 4-H Youth Congress, held Nov. 24-28 in Memphis, Tenn. More than 850 youth took part in the event, which included lectures, workshops, cultural tours and community service. A special feature of the congress was a national town meeting, which was down-linked via satellite to other youth in communities across the country.

The 4-H winners from New Castle County are Christine Bloom, Emily Boone, Meredith Noble, and Andrew Short.

Seventeen-year-old Christine Bloom is state winner of the dog project award. The Newark resident has been a 4-Her for five years and has worked on a variety of 4-H projects, including horse, small animal and wood science. Vice-president of the Guiding Paws Club, Bloom raises Seeing Eye puppies for use by the blind.

Emily Boone, 16, a member of the Highlanders Club, won the state award for foods and nutrition, sponsored by Grotto Pizza. The Wilmington resident enjoys volunteer work and has been active in photography and citizenship projects as well as foods and nutrition.

Meredith Noble, 16, is state winner of the public speaking award, sponsored by J.C. Penney Bank. A member of the Highlanders Club, this Wilmington resident has been an active 4-Her for six years. She has been involved in projects relating to public speaking, horses, and foods and nutrition.

Newark resident Andrew Short, 15, is state winner of the horticulture/entomology award, sponsored by the Delaware State Grange. Over the last three years, this Bear 4-H Club member has collected, mounted and identified 1,000 insects for his personal collection and has made collections for Iron Hill Museum and Lums Pond State Park.

The 4-H winners from Kent County are Jessica Jester and Dawn Kemp.

Jessica Jester, 16, of Greenwood is state winner of the fashion revue award, sponsored by McCall's. During her eight years in 4-H, Jester has participated in such projects as clothing and textiles, citizenship, safety, child care and small animals. In 1994, Jester was elected president of the Peach Blossom 4-H Club.

Magnolia resident Dawn Kemp is state winner of the sheep award, sponsored by Harrington Moose Lodge and Harrington Moose Women. This 16-year-old has been a 4-Her for nine years and has exhibited sheep at the Delaware State Fair. A member of the Rising Riders Club, Kemp's most memorable 4-H experience occurred when she was named Outstanding 4-Her of the Year for 1992.

The 4-H winners from Sussex County are Tracey Cannon, Tim Kittila and Douglas Neal.

Sixteen-year-old Tracey Cannon of Seaford won the state award for leadership, sponsored by Wilmington Trust Co. This TLC Club member has been active in 4-H projects relating to leadership, citizenship, child care and camping. She has served as president of the TLC 4-H Club and has been a junior leader of Cloverbuds, 4-Hers aged 5 to 8.

Tim Kittila, 16, of Seaford, is state winner of the computer science award, sponsored by the Delaware 4-H Foundation. A member of the Seaford Blue Jays Club, Kittila has worked extensively with computers for four years. He also helped develop a television commercial about home fire prevention for Sussex County 4-H.

Douglas Neal, 16, won the state award for agriculture, sponsored by the Delaware State Grange and Vincent Farms of Laurel. This Bridgeville resident has exhibited cows, rabbits and horses at the Delaware State Fair. A member of the Dublin Hill Club, Neal has been an active volunteer leader throughout his seven years in 4-H.

Maryland DHIA Report For November

The November 1995 Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd. To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of 3.5 percent fat corrected milk per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test.

Also listed are the top eight herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top six herds for Ayrshires.

Odor Control Has No Simple Solutions

Last Of A Series

Editor's note: Last week, the odors conference held in New Holland examined the challenges of studying odors and how to control them. This week looks at further studies about odors and how municipalities have reacted to odor concerns.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — When odors are under attack, what must farmers do to stem the problems that arise?

Charles Abdalla, associate professor of agricultural economics at Penn State, told producers and municipal planners at a recent conference here that there is a "diversity" of stockholders in the concerns about odor, flies, and water quality from manure. "It is difficult to generalize about the solutions," he said.

Abdalla reported the results of a "changing landscape" that is "creating a sense of unease." Penn State conducted a mushroom study last year. Twenty-eight of 54 farmers contacted in the study responded. Of the 28 that responded, 41 percent reported there were neighbor complaints from the mushroom farms.

Is co-existence possible?

"It's possible," said Abdalla, "but there are some cases where it isn't. The problems are very complex and are often interrelated." It's important for all parties involved in the procedure to recognize each other's interests and see change as an ongoing problem.

Abdulla also related a way in which this approach resulted in a "win-win" situation in New York state. There, N.Y. dairy farmers participated in a cost-share water quality program using best management practices. Established was the Watershed Agricultural Council, working with New York City, to ensure fresh water supply from the Catskill Mountains to eastern New York state.

The relationships that developed were fruitful and worked for both parties.

Counties in southeastern Pennsylvania are going through rapid demographic changes, according to Stan Lembeck, professor of agricultural economics and rural sociology at Penn State.

While the population of Pennsylvania has stayed on the same level, 11.7 million, in the past 10 years, there has been a movement of population to many of the agricultural areas in the southeast, away from the cities.

The increasing presence of urban populations will pose a challenge for producers in the year 2000 as they did in 1980 and 1990. About 40 percent of the people now live in the Class II townships, with a population density of 300 people per square mile. These townships are home to many animal agricultural facilities.

One of the first methods used to control odors by people outside of agriculture is township zoning.

"Zoning is sometimes thought of as a magic bullet, a Swiss army knife with a blade for every problem," said Lembeck. This thinking is often detrimental to agriculture.

Zoning sets the standards before the activity begins, but ignores the challenges faced by a changing environment, economy, and technology. Yet 65 percent of the municipalities — 1,600 of the 2,600 municipalities in Pennsylvania — have some form of zoning laws in place.

Paul Heinemann, associate professor of agricultural engineering at Penn State, provided detail on the study of odor modeling using the stack modeling approach in studies of air pollution. Research is ongoing to study the dynamics of odor formation and movement in the environment.

Some of the legal issues of nuisance regulations were examined by John Becker, Penn State professor of agricultural economics.

Of particular concern are the notions of what is a normal and customary way of farming when markets and technologies are changing so rapidly?

A producer also spoke at the conference about the market challenges producers face on top of the concerns for the environment.

Jerry Hostetter, independent pork producer from Denver, spoke about the changes taking place that will affect pork producers and how, in turn, nuisance litigation could be a concern.

Jerry Hostetter, independent pork producer from Denver, spoke about the changes taking place that will affect pork producers and how, in turn, nuisance litigation could be a concern.

Profit margins are shrinking, which translates into producing more hogs with less expense. The move is to more hog numbers at multiple sites, which helps with nutrient management. As a result, producers have had to work with new technology because of the concerns with manure holding area leaks and handling of the material.

Some of the legal issues of nuisance regulations were examined by John Becker, Penn State professor of agricultural economics.

Also, hog finishing technology has changed rapidly. In 1984, a typical hog finishing at 210-215 pounds produced a 150-pound carcass with a 1.5-inch backfat measurement. Now, a 255-pound hog has a 190-pound carcass with .65 to .7 inches of backfat.

Producers have had to work closer with the packers to develop products that consumers demand. But along with the demands include a bigger size operation to make feed delivery and feed use more economically feasible.

As a result, the hog industries have moved from the southeast to areas north and west of Harrisburg. About 70-80 percent of the farmers involved in Hostetter's business are dairy farmers that are hog finishing floor producers.

For his farms, "water quality is very important to us." It will be challenging for farmers to keep their industry profitable while at the same time working to ensure a clean environment.

Safety Of Foods
A Team Approach

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—A Statewide Forum focusing on enhancing the safety of Pennsylvania foods will be held on April 17 at the Harrisburg Hilton and Towers.

The Forum is a component of a four-year project designed to develop educational approaches to food safety. It will be hosted by Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The forum on food safety is open to food producers and processors, representatives from the food service industries, federal and state agencies, academia and consumer groups, and all others involved in the food system. It is designed to encourage the discussion of food safety issues by representatives from all areas of the food system. The goal of the Forum is to produce a "Food Safety Plan" that will develop and implement educational programs throughout the Pennsylvania food system.

Some of the key issues to be discussed at the Forum will include the state of food safety in Pennsylvania; the complexity and the integrated structure of food systems; and the effect of globalization of the economy, technology and regulatory changes, and consumer choices on the safety of Pennsylvania foods.

The Forum will include keynote speakers and panel discussions with representatives from every sector of the food system. After the panel discussions, Forum participants will be divided into small, multisector sessions to discuss issues that are critical to developing a food safety plan for Pennsylvania.

The day's activities will end with a dinner and a presentation of results from each work session. Designated delegates from each sector of the Pennsylvania food system will be asked to stay an additional day—April 18—to work on the development of the food safety plan.

For more information on the Forum or the project, contact Claudine Nuernberger, Coordinator, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Department of Veterinary Science, 115 William L. Henning Building, University Park, PA 16802-3500, or call (814) 863-5846 or 863-2160.

HOW DO I COMPARE PERFORMANCE BETWEEN FANS?

Eileen Fabian Wheeler
Assistant Professor
Ag. & Bio. Engr.

What is involved in selecting a fan to provide appropriate air flow?

First, it is crucial to select a fan for the conditions it will be operating under in the poultry house setting. The best and easiest way to select fans is through the use of "rated" fans.

Fans are rated when they are run through a series of standardized performance tests. Be sure to look at performance data where the fan was tested under conditions that match your application.

Match performance data such as static pressure the fan will be operating against and the type of equipment installed on the fan. Typical ventilation system static pressures vary from 0.08 to 0.20 inches of water. Typical equipment installed on poultry building ventilation fans include a wire guard, which prevents things from contacting the blades, and shutters or louvers which seal closed the fan opening when that fan is not in use. Guards should always be installed for safety reasons and louvers are used on either the inside or outside of most fans.

Suppose you are comparing different sized fans or ones from different manufacturers. You should be comparing data from tests where the fan was rated under controlled, standardized conditions. Tables of fan air flow performance look similar to those shown in Table 1.

The "Multi-Rating Table" shows the amount of air a fan can move against several levels of static pressure. Data from "Multi-Rating Tables" are plotted in Figure 1.

As the resistance to air flow increases, as measured by increased static pressure, air flow delivered by a fan decreases. It is critical that you select and compare fans that have been tested under the conditions for which they will be expected to perform in your operation.

For example, if your fan will be installed with louvers and a guard, then the fan multi-rating table should reflect performance of a fan operating with louvers and guard in place. Manufacturers offer "bare" fan performance with no additional equipment in place. This is not typical of an installed agricultural fan. Most manufacturers also offer fan performance data with louvers, grill and cone options in place. Ask for this more appropriate data.

Fan capability to deliver air flow and to perform efficiently varies widely among manufacturers and models.

A 36 inch fan, depending on its design and manufacturer, may deliver as little as 6,200 cfm for the worst performer up to 13,000 cfm for the best fan (both at 0.10 static pressure). In this case, by selecting the best performing fans, rather than the worst fans, one can double the air flow capacity of a ventilation system.

It is important to remember that ventilation is a system. The fan is only one component which performs an important function of creating the static pressure difference which drives the ventilation air exchange.

Inlet and air distribution components have a tremendous effect on the success of a ventilation system. Use data from rated fans when choosing fans.

Rated fans should be tested under the conditions and with the accessories, such as guards and louvers, under which you will expect them to operate. In this way, you can be assured of obtaining your system's ventilation air exchange rate.

York County Ag Preserve Board Accepts Applications

YORK (York Co.)—The York County Ag Land Preserve Board is accepting applications for consideration of the purchase of development rights for qualifying York County farmland.

If you are interested in selling your farmland's development rights, contact the York County Ag Land Preserve Board's program office, or call (717) 840-7400 for an informational packet and application. Deadline for application is Jan. 31.

The York County Agricultural Land Preservation Program has preserved 29 farms in 11 townships, reflecting a total of 7,582 acres to date. Another 1,843 acres is also in process for preservation in 1996, using 1995 ag preservation funds.

Southern States Awards Scholarships

NEWARK, Del.—Four students enrolled in the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware have been awarded Southern States scholarships for the current academic year.

They are Alexander R. Rice Jr. of Townsend, a senior majoring in animal science; Benjamin C. Postles of Milford, a junior majoring in agricultural engineering technology; Matthew C. Fifer of Wyoming, a sophomore majoring in agricultural business management; and Brian K. Reynolds of Smyrna, a first-year student majoring in entomology, with a concentration in wildlife conservation.

To be eligible, students must be enrolled in a college of agricultural sciences, be a resident of a state in which Southern States does business, be the child of a producer of agricultural products, and be active in a 4-H club or FFA chapter. Recipients must maintain a good academic record to hold the scholarship after the first year.

Ownership Changes

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.)—Binkely and Hurst Bros. Inc. has reached an agreement with Progressive Pressure Systems owned and operated by Martin Weaver.

P.P.S. is located at Binkley and Hurst Bros., Rothsville Station Rd., Lititz. The new business has purchased both the pressure washer and LP gas department.

This change of ownership will better enable both Binkley and Hurst Bros., Inc. and Progressive Pressure Systems to better focus on related areas of interest. New ownership is effective Jan. 2, 1996.

Leidy's Invited To Washington

HATFIELD (Montgomery Co.)—In a time when small- and medium-sized businesses are being absorbed by the larger conglomerates, Leidy's, Inc., Souderton has been invited to Washington to participate in public and meat industry meetings for the revising and upgrading of our national meat inspection system.

Leidy's has been asked to represent the medium and small sized meat packer to ensure the development of changes to the USDA meat inspection system that are relevant to their size production programs.

Terry Leidy, vice president and chief operations officer, was a recent participant in Washington, providing input for the specialty and medium sized operation segment of the industry.

"We have had a good relationship with the USDA over the years. We have sought to take a proactive position in ensuring high standards for our products," said Leidy.

Knowing how important food safety is to the average person, Leidy's decided to voluntarily set up a high-standard quality control program designed to enhance their food safety program.

"In 1987, doing this total quality control program made us one of the few facilities in the country to move ahead of the national USDA minimum standards," said Thomas Leidy, president. "We have helped to set focus on the results of high standards and are now asked to participate in the development of a program to upgrade the entire meat processing industry."

It's important in today's fast-paced world that meat packers enhance their food safety programs to help guarantee low bacteria counts. "People just don't handle food the same way they used to," said Vice President Leidy. Few high schools are teaching the essentials of food safety to their students. Research has shown much of the food contamination we experience is due to improper thawing of food or delay in refrigeration. Many young adults have little or no knowledge of what needs to be done to avoid contaminating their food.

The microwave too has presented its own set of problems. Many young children are now preparing their own food. Sometimes this means the food that our youth are consuming may not be cooked properly.

"It seems we are taking food safety for granted," President Leidy said. "From our point of view we want to provide our consumer with the least possibility of a problem. Therefore, we have taken the lead in developing a proactive food processing program that seeks to minimize any risk to the consumer."

Pulsation Controllers Offer Unique Features

NAPERVILLE, Ill.—Two dairy system pulsation controllers have been designed to provide more accurate pulsation rates and ratios in a wide range of temperatures and operating conditions—the Surge® Large Pulsation Controller and the Medium Pulsation Controller from Babson Bros. Co.

The digital LED display provides constant visual confirmation of set rate and ratios. A self-diagnostic function assists in pulsation troubleshooting procedures.

Another key feature of the Pulsation Controllers is the energy-saving mode, which lowers the operating temperature and extends the life of the pulsation coil.

Four-channel operation allows the pulsators to be cascade-operated. The staggered pulsation evens out the air flow in the system, minimizing cyclic vacuum fluctuations. For synchronized operation, both controllers can be serial-linked with another unit.

The controllers are enclosed in a white, high-impact composite cabinet that will not rust or deteriorate in a dairy environment.

A wide selection of rates and ratios allows the pulsation system to be set to meet ISO standards. Pulsation rates can be set from 50 to 81 pulses per minute (ppm) in one-minute increments for dairy cattle. The rate can be set from 81 to 179 ppm in three-minute increments for milking goats and sheep and other non-traditional applications.

Deere Adds Diesel To Gator Line

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. — The John Deere Gator™ 6x4 Diesel takes the Gator to the next power level, at home on the farm, in off-road and turf environments.

A three-cylinder, 18-hp liquid-cooled Yanmar diesel engines gives the Gator 6x4 Diesel more high-end torque and increased engine life. The Diesel also offers an increased payload and towing capacity of 1,400 pounds.

The new Gator Diesel also offers many features from the current Gator 6x4 gasoline model, such as low ground pressure and low center of gravity which allows these heavy-duty haulers to work on turf without leaving ruts or marks. For extra traction, the 6x4 provides full-time four-wheel drive and differential lock.

With a 15.5-mph maximum speed and no clutching or shifting, John Deere's Gators allow you to concentrate on the job at hand. The rack-and-pinion steering system is smooth for low effort.

The 6x4 and 4x2 Gators share an arc-welded unibody design, front suspension and a fully independent, single A-arm design that stands up to the bumps and jolts of off-road work.

Compact Mower/Conditioner From Vermeer

PELLA, Iowa — A new, disc-style mower/conditioner designed for smaller hay and forage operations is available from Vermeer Manufacturing Co.

The compact Vermeer RC5120 Mower/Conditioner operates at a cutting width of 6 foot 8 inches and speeds of up to 9 mph. A single, direct drive gearbox provides power to both the cutterbar and conditioning rollers. Three-point, spring-loaded suspension provides excellent flotation, both laterally and vertically, minimizing scalping and "missed" low spots. An overrunning slip clutch provides simple, dependable protection for both the tractor and mower/conditioner.

The simple, modular design of the RC5120 eliminates high maintenance costs and constant fluid checks associated with flatbed-style gear systems. The disc-style cutterbar features a series of independent cutting heads driven by a continuous steel hex shaft. Each cutting head is self-contained and prepacked with its own set of gears, bearings, and lubricants.

The unit is equipped with five synchronized cutting discs that are tapered to gently "lift" the cut crop to the conditioning rollers. The discs also counter-rotate to reduce wrapping problems and better promote crop flow. Top-hat discs are positioned at each end of the cutterbar to convey crop into the conditioner rollers.

The compact Vermeer RC5120 Mower/Conditioner operates at a cutting width of 6 feet 8 inches and speeds of up to 9 mph.

Protective side curtains which have undergone extensive puncture testing, consist of heavy-duty, single-ply rubber which is up to 250 percent thicker than curtain material found on competitive units. Replaceable, swing-away cutting knives feature a special heat-treated, "austempering" process for greater shatter resistance. They are also reversible for longer wear. Additionally, the unit features heavy-built tubular frame and steel panel construction and a fold-back hood for easy access to the cutting bed.

Roundup Herbicide Marks Anniversary

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Twenty-five years ago, a Monsanto Company research scientist discovered Roundup herbicide and forever changed the face of agriculture.

From Midwestern wheat fields to small farming hamlets throughout Africa, Roundup herbicide has helped farmers produce more crops, while preserving soil and controlling erosion.

"That discovery twenty-five years ago means so much to so many people of the world today," said Arnold W. Donald, president of Monsanto's Crop Protection Unit. "It means that farming systems can be sustained for future generations. It means that developing countries can be more self-reliant for their food production, and it means that fragile ecosystems, choked by invasive vegetation, are being preserved."

Roundup, is registered in more than 100 countries and is used on more than 100 crops. According to Farm Chemicals magazine, which listed Roundup among the top 10 products that changed the face of agriculture, "Roundup has been the spark behind adoption of conservation tillage in the U.S. and worldwide."

Through conservation tillage, farmers produce crops in a way that is economically efficient and environmentally sound. Instead of plowing fields, growers are able to plant through the stubble of the previous crop. This protects soil from wind and rain erosion, protects streams from sedimentation, leaves waste grain on fields to feed wildlife and conserves on labor, fuel and energey.

Roundup, which controls nearly any green weed, is used instead of tillage to remove weeds before seeds are planted into the soil-saving crop stubble.

In honor of Roundup's 25th anniversary, Monsanto announced the John Franz Sustainability Award, a $100,000 grant to groups or individuals involved in a project that helps move the world toward a sustainable future. The award is named for Dr. John Franz, the Monsanto scientist who discovered Roundup herbicide in 1970. The first winner of the award will be announced in 1996.

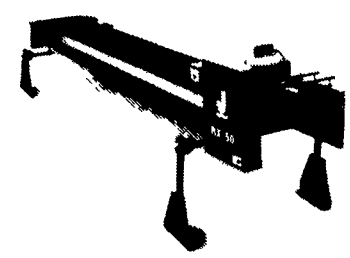
Jamesway Introduces Belt Conveyor

FORT ATKINSON, Wis. — A new low cost, high utility 14 inch or 18 inch wide belt conveyor for installations up to 50 feet is available from Jamesway.

Built for long life and large capacity, the RX50 belt conveyor features rigid 16 gauge galvanized RX steel sections that will span up to 20 feet between supports. Sections are available in 2½ foot, 5 foot or 10 foot lengths, and are designed with a 140-degree trough for higher concave belt capacity.

The RX 50 is also easy to maintain and economical to run. An efficient tail section with simple belt tightener features a steel tapered, wing design roller that centers the belt and cleans itself of fines and feed. The lagged drive roller and low horsepower drive unit help keep operating costs low.

Depending upon the installation, the RX 50 is available with either a smooth or textured 1/8 inch thick belt made of tough polyester with PVC coating and stainless steel splice. Both a stationary, tip-up feed diverter and a fine scraper is available for use with the smooth belt; a fine sweeping brush is available for use with the smooth or textured belt.



Built for long life and large capacity, the RX 50 belt conveyor features rigid 16 gauge galvanized RX steel sections that will span up to 20 feet between supports.

One thing you'll appreciate about Case skid steers is how well they maneuver. Thanks to their responsive steering and overall compact size, they have the agility and the power to get the job done. Especially in limited space. Even more impressive is how many jobs they can master. Every Case skid steer is designed to power a long list of profit-producing attachments. So whether the task involves lifting, digging, spreading or cutting, Case machines get it done. And our quick-change coupling systems let you switch attachments fast. Plus, all Case skid steers, from our rugged 18 horsepower gas model to our 56 horsepower diesel, provide the ultimate in power, durability and reliability. In fact, we offer more horsepower than the competition in almost every class. And every model is backed by the best parts, service and financing in the industry. Because our feeling is that dealer support should be every bit as strong and versatile as the machines themselves. So visit your Case dealer and find out more about our full line of skid steers. You'll like them for what they are. And especially for what they become.

Harvesters Hold Key To Improvement In Lima Bean Production

NEWARK, Del. — Tweaking harvest machines to improve lima bean yields can only go so far, even for an engineer such as Dr. Jim Glancey.

The University of Delaware assistant professor, like a modern-day Cyrus McCormick who patented a reaper in 1834, is taking a whole new look at harvesting techniques. Current methods of combing and stripping the pods from the plant leave too many limas in the field.

Lima beans are more than just a passing fancy with the Delaware vegetable industry. The state has more acreage in lima beans than in any other vegetable crop. Combined, Delaware and California produce most of the lima beans consumed in the United States. Improving harvest recoverability will have significant economic impact on the industry.

"We've worked with and documented performance of current harvesters and have suggested improvements for the machines," Glancey said. "But we need a new strategy. We've refined the current harvest technique as much as we can, and we're still losing more than 20 percent of the yield. The loss translates to about $100 per acre. With more than 10,000 acres in lima beans, Delaware growers and processors are losing $1 million."

Glancey said his data, gleaned from work with several harvester manufacturers, show that 70 percent of harvest loss is occurring at the harvester head, where the machine combs pods from the plant. His reasearch over the past two years has yielded information on how to adjust the harvester to minimize loss. But these results aren't good enough.

Glancey and Ed Kee, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension vegetable specialist, proposed a project to FMC Inc., based in Hoopston, Ill., to develop a new method of harvesting lima beans. FMC has agreed to loan the use of a new $350,000 harvester and to sponsor the multiyear research project.

"We like to think we are leaders in the industry," said Fred Zemke, head of engineering at FMC's machinery division. "The processors saw a need for developing a more efficient harvester, and Glancey and Kee have an inside track and established reputations with processors and growers. Universities are working with industry to fill a niche in research and development."

"Redesigning machines is expensive," Glancey said, "but we can justify the expense if the cost can be recouped in the increased harvest recovery. Also, the machines are owned by the processing companies and are used to harvest peas as well as lima beans. The improvement we develop will benefit both crops."

Glancey will build several small prototype machines in his lab, concentrating on innovative approaches to separating pods from plants. He also plans to incorporate a sophisticated guidance system for the head to eliminate unnecessary trash pickup.

Currently trash content in the harvested beans can be as high as 25 percent, resulting in large water requirements and excessive cost during processing. Once the bugs have been worked out of the models, Glancey will test a harvester under field conditions.

"The actual harvest is different from laboratory conditions," Glancey said. "A wide-scale farming project — such as UD's Warrington Farm — allows us to find solutions to the harvest problem. We're hoping for a working prototype within two years."

Designing a new machine is only one part of the comprehensive lima bean research project at UD. Kee has been working with Sacramento Valley Milling Co., a seed company in California, conducting variety trials to find limas best-suited to Delaware growing conditions.

Local companies have donated use of their land and equipment. Kee says several baby lima bean varieties show promise. But even more important are the two very high-yielding Fordhook varieties he has identified. Up until now, no Fordhook varieties have produced well on the Delmarva Peninsula.

Homer Seemans, operations manager at Saulsbury Brothers in Ridgely, Md., said the variety trials are essential to processors, who look for traits such as days to maturity, size, overall yield and even color.

"Picking the right variety helps to keep costs from escalating," he said. "We can be more efficient and keep food prices stable or reduce them."

"It's exciting to look at the processing as a total system, from varieties and planting to cultural practices and harvesting," Kee said. "The results of our research will benefit the entire industry."

Jim Glancey, left, and Ed Kee document the loss of lima beans during a harvester evaluation test. Over the last two years, more than 80 tests have been conducted by UD researchers.

A fleet of machines harvest lima beans at West Farms in Milford, Del. Redesigning harvesting equipment will help reduce the excessive loss — more than $1 million — to Delaware's vegetable industry.

Wheat-Soybean Double Crop Drains Soil Fertility

NORCROSS, Ga. — Although the 1995 crop harvest was a disappointment to many farmers, there were many who came away from their fields smiling.

The summer drought took a toll on much of the soybean, cotton, corn, sorghum and forage crops, particularly in the South. Keen observers have pointed out that certain fields just seemed to perform better than others as the dry weather continued. Frequently, the explanation for the better performance was an aggressive, balanced fertility program.

A 70-bushel wheat crop followed by a 55-bushel soybean crop removes more than 80 pounds of P_2O_5 and 100 pounds of K_2O in the harvested grain. Several years of good yields with both crops can stress the nutrient supplying power and reserves of the soil. Good yields in 1992 and also in 1994 may have set the 1995 crop up for a heavy fertilizer input. If care was not taken to apply what the soil test called for, or if a standard couple hundred pounds per acre of a low analysis blend (such as 13-13-13, 0-12-24, 17-17-17) were applied at or ahead of wheat planting without the benefit of a soil test, the crops were probably short-changed.

The higher the yield, the greater the nutrient removal, and the greater the need to replace the harvested nutrients and to replenish the soil supply.

Well-fertilized crops use moisture more efficiently. Drought stress and nutrient stress often go hand in hand. Soybeans that followed wheat in 1995 inherited a soil profile that was already drained of a plant-available supply of moisture, in many cases. Well-fertilized wheat will use soil moisture more efficiently and less soil moisture may be left for the double-crop soybeans that follow. Intensive crop rotation research has shown that water use efficiency (bushels of grain per inch of rainfall) can increase substantially with balanced fertilization. Phosphorus enables plants to store and transfer energy. Without adequate phosphorus, plant root growth becomes limited, preventing access to soil depths with more moisture. Potassium helps control water loss through leaves, allowing plants to tolerate drought better. The percent yield response to phosphorus and potassium is greater in low rainfall years. Of course, good crop responses will also be observed with adequate rainfall.

If wheat was planted without supplying needed phosphorus and potassium, it is not too late to apply. Recent research has indicated that wheat can benefit from top-dressed phosphorus applications as late as early March if requirements were not supplied earlier. On low phosphorus testing soils, phosphorus can be applied again for the soybeans after wheat harvest. This will prevent soil phosphorus fixation from limiting the availability to soybeans when they begin growth. An alternative would be to supply a higher rate of phosphorus for the needs of both crops now.

Potassium needs can be applied now to benefit both crops without concern for limited availability to the following soybean crop. On very sandy soils that have a low cation exchange capacity (CEC), it is best to apply potash just ahead of each crop to limit potential leaching losses of potassium.

Once soil test levels begin to decline as a result of good crop yields and nutrient removal, it will take much effort and time to restore them to the desired sufficiency range. Develop a nutrient management plan that benefits the complete crop rotation, both for good years with adequate moisture and when moisture is short. It will help assure higher, more efficiently produced yields ... and more profits.

Why Patz® is No. 1

Durable Patz hook-and-eye link chain. Progression forging builds extra strength into hook-and-eye link contact points. Final heat treating increases hardness, strength and wear resistance.
Four-tooth sprocket drives every link behind the hook--the link's thickest and strongest point.
Chain flexibility for various layouts.
Select 2" flites for solid manure or 4" high flites for slurry manure. 1/4-inch-thick flites are welded to Patz links. 1/2-inch-thick wear shoes extend flite life.
Three drive unit sizes match your gutter length and allow expansion.
Corner wheel top-and-bottom flanges guide the chain around the corner. Corner wheel assemblies remove easily for service without concrete breakout.
Heavier XH link available for extremely long pulls.
15 year extended warranty on chain--in writing.
Affordable financing from Patz.

SEE US AT THE PA FARM SHOW - JAN. 6-11, 1996

It's not too early to begin planning for storing your valuable feeds for 1996! Quality forages and grains become more important as margins decrease in the dairy and livestock industries.

When you think of "quality" feeds, you need to consider "quality" storage. Farmers all over the East (from Maine to Florida, and West to the Mississippi River), are turning to the poured concrete SOLLENBERGER SILO to protect the quality of their feeds.

Listen to what these farmers from VA say about their switch to a poured concrete silo for their hi-moisture shelled corn storage: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture shelled corn ever."

Signed: Keith Wilson, Paul Wilson, Gerald Garber, Cave View Farms, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.

"THE BLIZZARD OF '93, THE SEVERE WINTER OF '94, and THE SNOWY FALL OF '95, all INCREASE YOUR APPRECIATION OF THE CONCRETE TOWER SILO" MEMBER: International Silo Association/PA Forage and Grassland Council/AM Society of Agricultural Engineers/Crop Storage Institute.

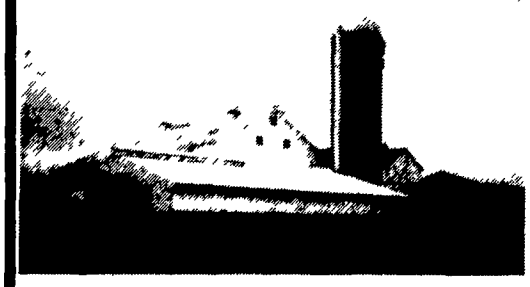
CURTAIN SYSTEMS



Lapp's Curtain System

Lapp's insulated curtains can help you make your farm more efficient You can save up to 30% on your fuel/energy costs while maintaining a comfortable climate enables livestock to feed into live weight more efficiently, the curtain makes your barn warmer in winter and cooler in summer

Our curtains are available in both 4 and 6 ply, both of which are faced with a impervious white vinyl layer which faces the elements With all these benefits, the average payback is two years!

A lower cost alternative to the insulated curtains, are Lapp's single layer curtains You still get all the benefits of using a high quality curtain to keep the elements outside and being able to lower the curtain to naturally ventilate in your barn

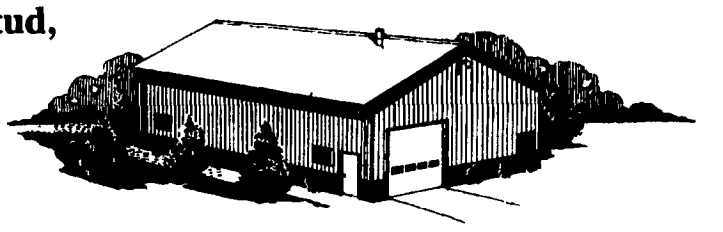
The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative:

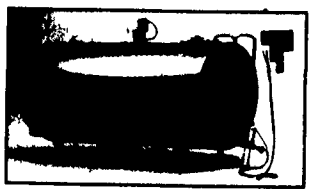
RUFUS BRUBAKER REFRIGERATION

And...

MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk!

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$41,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,950
Total operating cost for ten years	$58,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

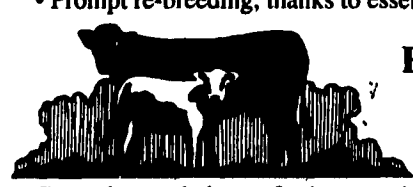
INTRODUCING...

SWEETCAKE 16NU
FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages
- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy
- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef
- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

Extension Program Assistant - Agriculture

The Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Adams County is seeking applicants for an Extension Program Assistant-Agriculture, to be responsible for planning, implementing, and evaluating educational programs for adults in the broad areas of soils, agronomic crops, livestock production, chemical use, government programs and regulations. This will include programs for the general public addressing land use, ag practices, and environmental concerns.

Candidates must have a bachelors or Masters degree in agriculture or related field and experience of working with farmers, agribusiness and public organizations. Candidates should possess teaching, evaluation, and program development skills and must demonstrate positive human relations and effective communication skills.

Adams County Cooperative Extension is a unit of Penn State. This position is being funded entirely by the Adams County Board of Commissioners and includes the county's benefits package. The closing date for accepting resumes and applications is January 10, 1996, or until a suitable candidate has been selected.

Applications and a position description are available from David Zabel, Human Resources Director, Adams County Courthouse, 111 Baltimore St., Gettysburg, PA 17325, or from the Adams County Extension Office, 1135 Chambersburg Road, Gettysburg, PA 17325.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC INFORMATION MEETINGS AND HEARINGS PENNSYLVANIA STATE CONSERVATION COMMISSION PROPOSED NUTRIENT MANAGEMENT REGULATIONS

Notice is hereby given by the State Conservation Commission of seven public information meetings and four public hearings on proposed regulations for nutrient management on farms within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The proposed regulations would require those farms with over 2,000 pounds (liveweight) of livestock per acre of land suitable for the application of manure to develop and implement a nutrient management plan. Farms that do not meet these criteria are encouraged to develop nutrient management plans under these regulations as well. These proposed regulations are mandated by the Nutrient Management Act (Act 6 of 1993).

State Conservation Commission Public Information Meetings

The State Conservation Commission will hold seven public information meetings for the purpose of discussing the proposed regulations and answering questions. No formal recording of questions or comments will be done at these meetings. The meetings will be held on the following dates and times:

January 30, 1996 • 6:30 - 9:30 p.m.
Somerset County Vo-Tech, R.D.#5, Vo Tech Road, Somerset, PA

January 31, 1996 • 6:30 -9:30 p.m.
The Leslie N. Firth Learning Center, The Home of Mercer County Extension, P.O. Box 530 (Route 19, 1 mi. north of Mercer), Mercer, PA

February 1, 1996 • 6:30 - 9:30 p.m.
Wysox Fire Hall, On Lake Road, Off The Intersection Of Routes 6 and 187, Wysox, PA

February 8, 1996 • 6:30 - 9:30 p.m.
Brynwood Inn, Routes 15 & 45, Lewisburg, PA

February 12, 1996 • 6:30 - 9:30 p.m.
Shippensburg Senior High School, 201 Eberly drive, Shippensburg, PA

February 13, 1996 • 12:30-3:30 p.m. and 6:30 - 9:30 p.m.
Farm & Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA

State Conservation Commission Public Hearings

The State Conservation Commission will hold four public hearings for the purpose of accepting comments on the proposed regulations. The hearings will be held at 7 p.m. on the following dates:

March 4, 1996
Somerset County Vo-Tech, R.D.#5, Vo Tech Road, Somerset, PA

March 5, 1996
The Leslie N. Firth Learning Center, The Home of Mercer County Extension, P.O. Box 530 (Route 19, 1 mi. north of Mercer), Mercer, PA

March 6, 1996
Brynwood Inn, Routes 15 & 45, Lewisburg, PA

March 11, 1996
Farm & Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA

Persons wishing to present testimony at the hearings must contact Karl Brown at the State Conservation Commission, Room 304, Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110, (717) 787-8821, at least one week in advance of the hearing to reserve a time to present testimony. Oral testimony will be limited to ten minutes for each witness, and three written copies of the oral testimony must be submitted at the hearing. Each organization is requested to designate one witness to present testimony on its behalf.

In lieu of or in addition to presenting oral testimony at the hearings, interested persons may submit written comments, suggestions or objections regarding the proposal to the State Conservation Commission, Room 304, Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110. Comments must be received by March 29, 1996. Comments received by facsimile (fax) will not be accepted. In addition to the written comments, interested persons may submit a summary of their comments to the State Conservation Commission. The summary shall not exceed one page in length and must also be received by March 29, 1996. The summary will be provided to each member of the State Conservation Commission in the agenda packet distributed prior to the meeting at which the final regulation will be considered. Comments may also be submitted electronically at RegComments@al.dep.state.pa.us.

If you are a person with a disability and wish to attend any of these meetings or hearings and you require an auxiliary aid, service or other accommodation to participate in the proceedings, please contact David Reed at (717) 772-5649 or the AT&T Relay Service at 800-654-5984 (TDD users) to discuss how your needs may be accommodated.

Copies of the Proposal

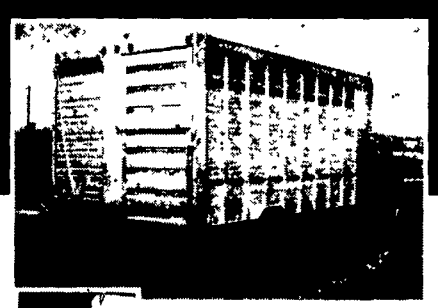
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

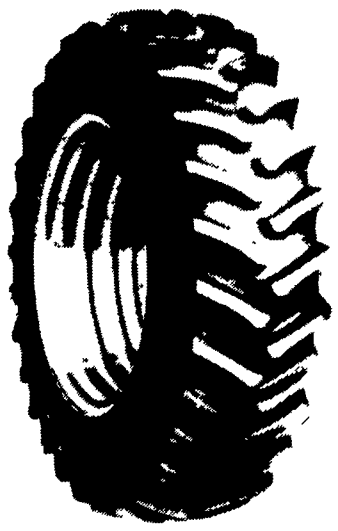
Super All Traction 23°



R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

The high quality of corn forage produced by the JAGUAR is derived from the CLAAS corn cracker. Two saw toothed rollers run at different speeds with 20% difference open up virtually every kernel and this means good quality silage which is easily digested. This makes for highest energy transfer for higher milk and meat yields.
The rollers are subject to wear and tear, so the CLAAS corn cracker features removeable outer sleeves. The shafts, drive pulley and bearings are all reused, thus reducing maintenance costs. Foreign bodies pass through thanks to a spring loaded mechanism. The 7.7" diameter of the corn cracker rollers is exceptionally large. The speed differential intensifies the grinding effect for effective opening of the kernels.
The degree of corn cracker intensity is adjustable to take account of differing dry matter content. This is done mechanically. An optional electrical adjustment is available.
Since the corn cracker stays on the machine, the changeover from corn to grass can always with a minimum of preparation. This is a help when grass and corn are being harvested at the same time. The area around the corn cracker ahead of the cooling system is very large, enabling ease of access to parts you wouldn't otherwise be able to reach. For instance the accelerator or ejection chute.

KNIGHT

3000 Series Reel Auggie Mixer®

LESS PRESSURE, FRICTION, AND WEAR . . .
FASTER MIXING AND BETTER FEED QUALITY . . .
ALL FEATURES OF THE KNIGHT REEL AUGGIE

3000 SERIES REEL AUGGIES FEATURE THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES:

- Blends by gently lifting, fluffing, and tumbling the entire load, reducing mix time, power requirement, machine wear, and dead spots
- Aggressive upper and lower auger with hardened, replaceable knives, for thorough end-to-end movement
- Shear angle for both the upper and lower auger
- Simple slide tray or three auger discharge available
- Oil bath drive with external grease banks
- Constant Velocity PTO with integral slip clutch
- Hay-Max Kit option for better break-up of most hay and bulk materials
- Tow, truck mounted, and stationary units from 147 to 488 cubic feet

Simply . . . the Best

If we could build a better Robin, we would!
AND WE DID!
Try the new Robin
(Formerly Wisc.-Robin)!

Same quality features they always had but now with Overhead Valves and all the latest technology. All this plus a much lower price (Due to more direct marketing) makes it today's best engine buy.

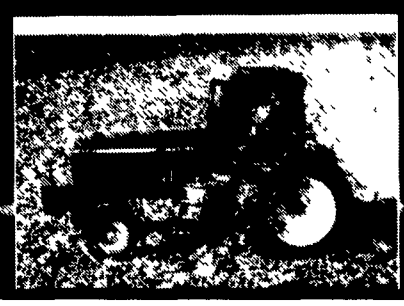
Intertec
Used Tractor Price Guide



For over 45 years, Intertec has made a business of knowing the used equipment market. That's why we're able to offer you comprehensive tractor pricing, specification and loan value information. Introducing the 1996 Used Tractor Price Guide. Covering over 25 manufacturer's models from 1970-1995, this handy reference provides you with detailed information on engine size, transmission speeds, PTO hp, drawbar hp, shipping weight, approximate retail price when new, estimated trade-in values (high and low) and more. You'll also find special sections covering tractor serial numbers and their locations. Covering many tractors from 1924 through 1992. So if you're buying or selling a tractor...or just interested in model specifications, turn to the 1996 Used Tractor Price Guide for complete reference information. 1996 editions/5.5x8" softbound/Enlarged Edition 320 paper pages $9.95.

NEW! "TRACTORS AT WORK" A Pictorial Review 1904-1994 This book shows the working history of tractors from the early years of this century until the present day. Shows early pioneer machines, tractors of sixties and seventies and finally to the sophisticated giants of today. 150 B&W, 16 color photos. 128 pages Hardcover $29.95

Finally, a practical way to apply organic mulch to row crops

Organic mulch is the natural way to suppress weeds, help retain soil moisture, and improve soil conditions. Trouble is, hand mulching takes too much time and effort. Now the Millcreek Row Mulcher makes it easy and affordable to mulch berries, grapes, fruit trees, and other row crops. One operator can mulch an acre in just a couple hours depending on conditions.

Spread A Variety of Materials, Including Lime

You can spread all types of stemless flowable mulches, such as wood chips, sawdust, chopped bark, even compost, with plenty of clearance to avoid plant damage. Plus, the Millcreek Row Mulcher is ideal for banding lime and other materials requiring lighter applications. The optional metering gate gives you complete control of the coverage so you can tailor applications to best suit your cultivation practices. With the labor-saving versatility you get with the Millcreek Row Mulcher, you may even find new techniques to grow better crops.

For Small Growers
This may be the affordable machine you've been looking for to mulch berries, grapes, and other row crops. Think of the labor you'll save.

For Commercial Growers
Choose from 3.1, 4.5, and 6.8 cubic yard capacities. Or call to discuss your special requirements.

One "Farm-Tough" Machine
With our own farming background, we take great satisfaction in building affordable machines for growers like you who need reliable, trouble-free equipment to help increase production and keep costs down. That's just what the Millcreek Row Mulcher will do for you. Call today.

CLAAS® Rollant round balers give you what you want

—one quality round bale after another.

Discover Quality...Discover Value...

The Rollant 66 makes fast work of 4'x5' bales. Its unique two-stage pick-up and close tines produce a clean, efficient harvest in less time. Rollatex netting wraps a bale in 10 seconds or less, and double-twine wraps it up in just 20.

The Rollant 46 introduced CLAAS's innovative fixed bale chamber to the marketplace. This versatile baler handles all farm operations from dry hay to silage. Nobody produces a better 4'x4' bale.

The Rollant 42 was designed for family livestock operations. This economical investment produces weather-tight 4'x4' bales for the highest nutrient content possible.

CLAAS bales mean nutrient-filled edible hay, low spoilage, and high crude protein retention.

Each Rollant offers the innovative chamber, low-profile pick-up, and world class dependability. And they all share CLAAS's international reputation for low maintenance, durability and long-life.

Call now to see how you can improve the round figures on your bottom line.
